WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau.
Toledo, O., 8 a. m., March 4, 1892.

The local forecast for to-day is cloudy and warm during the day and rain in the evening.

For Saturday—Rain, stationary temperature.

The storm center reported yesterday has advanced eastward about 250 miles and now extends from Cheyenne to Springfield, Ills.

The storm which passed into the Atlantic Tuesday from the south Atlantic states has been slowly moving up the coast, gaining energy and creating heavy gales in New England. Its influence has extended westward as far as the lower lakes, so that to-day Toledo and the Ohio valley has a storm both east and west of it, which will produce cloudy and rainy weather until at least Sunday night. Clear and warm weather prevails in Montana, the south Atlantic and gulf states. In other districts it is either cloudy or rainy, with rising temperature.

The lowest temperature reported to-day is 18 degrees at Oswego. The uniformity in temperature can be best illustrated by contrasting the temperature in Montana, where it is 26 degrees, with that in Florida, where it is 46 degrees.

The highest in Toledo yesterday was 44 degrees; the lowest this morning was 36 degrees.

Washington, March 4.—Forecast for Ohio—Light local showers; southerly winds, becoming variable.

For Indiana and Illinois—Local showers; variable winds; cooler in northern, slightly warmer in northern portion.

For Michigan and Wisconsin—Cloudy weather and light showers; variable winds.

Another Change in the Indianapolis Situation.

Indianapolis, March 4.—Judge Taylor this morning discharged President Frenzel on the charge of contempt and turned the property of the street car company back to him.

President Frenzel will discharge all men who deserted the company during the strike, but the strikers are under obligation to abide by the company's judgment in its discriminations. Another strike is not probable but is possible. President Frenzel's victory is complete.

Such is the Situation in Germany To-Day.

Rioting Breaks Out More Serious Than Ever.

Hungry Men Gather by the Thousand

And Raid the Bakeries and Meat Shops.

Piles of Food Heaped in the Streets and Divided Among Those Most Needy—Strange Scenes in the Dantzic District.

Berlin, March 4.—A dispatch from Dantzic says that serious rioting similar to that which took place recently in this city, occurred there to-day.

As in Berlin, the trouble was caused by the large number of people out of work, and doubtless, the flames of discord were fanned by the emperor's recent utterances about crushing and driving out of Germany all of those who oppose him.

The spirit of restlessness, it may also be said, is kept alive by the prosecutions of the Cologne Gazette and the Frankfurter Zeitung, for criticising the emperor's acts, and the general opinion prevailing that the struggle between the people and the emperor, who has been likened to Nero by the Frankfurter Zeitung, has commenced in real earnest.

The troubles at Dantzic, like the troubles at Leipsic and many other places, began by a mass meeting of the unemployed, by fiery addresses made by agitators, and by heated suggestions upon the part of socialistic orators.

A delegation was then appointed to call upon the chief local magistrate, who had been warned that the trouble was brewing. The magistrate received the delegation in the kindest manner, listened to all they had to say about their grievances, and gave them some good advice as to observing a peaceful attitude in spite of their deplorable situation.

To this one of the delegates angrily replied: "Would you feel peaceful or behave peacefully if your wife and children were crying at home for the bread you are not allowed to earn?"

The magistrate dodged the pointed question very cleverly, then gave the delegation some more advice, showing them, to his own satisfaction, that it would certainly not further their interests and might injure them if they came into collision with the police.

Finally the magistrate informed the delegation that the local authorities, anticipating some such visit, had taken steps to provide relief works upon which the most needy of the unemployed could find work.

When asked how many men he could find work for, the magistrate said that he feared the authorities could only employ one hundred and fifty or two hundred men.

As there are, according to the estimate, some two or three thousand persons at Dantzic in need of employment, this reply caused further grumbling among the delegates, asking: "And while one hundred and fifty or two hundred are earning bread, who is to feed the thousands who are hungry?"

To this question the magistrate could not find any reply; but he again advised the delegates to recommend to their comrades that law and order must be observed in spite of their sufferings.

The delegation then withdrew, and later in the day some 200 men from the unemployed masses of Dantzic were embarked on board a steamer chartered by the local authorities and were taken up the river to a spot where the relief works were situated.

The departure of this happy 200 was witnessed by about 2,000 workmen who gave them a hearty cheer as they steamed away, and who would have been most glad of the opportunity of accompanying them.

No sooner was the steamer out of sight, than the angry feeling which animated the hungry army of unemployed men began to obtain the upper hand of them.

There was much shouting and swearing, many bitter things said about the emperor and then the socialist and anarchist orators, seeing that the temper of the men was such that they might be excited to do almost anything, began to harangue the crowds, telling them of their wrongs, of the oppression of the government and of the cruel bearing of the emperor, the Nero of Germany, who, they said, instead of being in sympathy with the masses of poverty stricken people throughout the country, who were unable to obtain work enough to keep their starving families in bread and cheese, threatened those who were opposed to this order of things and announced his intention of driving from Germany the people who raised their voices in protest against this treatment.

Of course this is only an idea of the wild sayings which were poured into the ears of the excited workmen with the result that no sooner was the now familiar cry in Germany of "Bread, bread, bread, give us bread or give us work," raised by the agitators than a mob of 2,000 men spread themselves in detachments over the neighborhood and pilaged a number of baker shops, which were completely gutted of their contents.

The police tried in vain to stem the human torrent, but it gained force with the demolishment of the baker's stores and turned its attention to the butcher shops, which were quickly emptied of their contents.

Then there was a strange scene. Immense piles of stolen meat and bags of flour were gathered at convenient spots and the work of equal distribution began. Sturdy rioters guarded these stores of provisions while others measured out the meat and flour to the starving men.

But it was not for themselves that the provisions were taken. Each man as he approached the distributing point was asked how many people he had in his family and upon the number being given he was handed a piece of meat and a measure or two of flour, according to the needs of his household.

While this work of distribution was going on, in an orderly manner in the public streets, skirmishing parties of rioters were keeping the police, who were greatly outnumbered, at bay by pelting them with stones or charging upon them and driving the authorities from the scene of the riot.

Other skirmishing parties emptied wine stores, grocery stores and other places where food and drink was to be had until every man among the rioters had laid in a supply of provisions of some kind or another.

The mob, in spite of this rioting, was orderely, if such term can be applied to rioters. For instance, the chief magistrate previously referred to, while the work of pillaging the stores was still in progress, appeared on the scene surrounded by a detachment of police, and implored the rioters to maintain order and to go to their homes, that the local authorities would overlook, so far as possible, the damage already done and that they would do their utmost to provide additional relief works.

The rioters gathered in a compact body and listened impatiently to all the magistrate had to say and then one of them, acting as spokesman, replied: "You go your way and we will go ours when we have food for our starving families. Is is a worse crime to take bread for our dear ones than to see them starve before our eyes? Leave us alone and all will be well; if you provoke us you must take the consequences and the streets of Dantzic may be hidden beneath ashes and blood."

These sentiments evidently met with the indorsement of the mob for a roar of approval greeted them, and in view of the threatening attitude of the mob, the large majority of them then being armed with sticks, tools, stones and in some instances, firearms, the magistrate deemed it wise to beat a retreat, which he did to the disgust of the police, who were anxious for a brush with the rioters.

During this retreat, a shot from a revolver was fired, probably by a drunken man among the rioters. The result was that he was immediately set upon by his comrades, who tore the weapon from him and gave the man a sound thumping and kicking.

Another and even more dangerous man, not content in taking part in sacking a baker's store, dragged some hot coals from the oven, and threw them upon a large heap of brushwood which the baker had accumulated for starting the fires with which to bake. Consequently, the dry brushwood was soon in a fierce blaze and the building was in danger of catching fire.

This so enraged the companions of the man who had started the fire that they caught hold of him and threw him back into the bake house, from which he had escaped, commanding him to put out the fire or perish in the flames, shouting angrily: "We are not anarchists; we are not socialists. We are honest workmen and who have starving families to protect. We will burn no man's dwelling, though we take the food the authorities refuse to give us."

Unhappily, though, these were beyond doubt the sentiments of the majority, there were more mischievously inclined people among them, for a number of private houses and stores containing valuables were broken into and part of their contents carried off. In addition a large quantity of property was wilfully destroyed and many lives were imperilled.

During this time, naturally, the police were not entirely idle. They formed into several detachments and repeatedly charged the mob. The latter, far outnumbering the police, fought desperately with the policemen, injuring a number of them and in several cases completely routing them. Victory eventually rested with the police but the rioters were not dispersed until they had done all the damage they intended to do.

Not over fifty prisoners were taken by the police during the whole course of the riots and many of these were rescued by the mob while being taken to the guard house.

UNDER AN AWFUL CHARGE

Suspicion Hangs Heavy Over Dr. Scudder.

He is Charged With Murdering His Mother-In-Law.

Peculiar Actions and Circumstances Lead to the Exhuming of the Remains—An Investigation to Follow.

Chicago, March 4.—A Tribune special from Janesville, Wis., says: In the coffin taken from Oak Hill cemetery in this city yesterday lies evidence that is counted on to tell strongly against Dr. Scudder.

It is the coffin of Mrs. Frank Dunton, and its exhuming marks the first step in an investigation.

Mrs. Dunton was buried here Tuesday. It has been said that Mrs. Dunton had been sitting in her room Sunday and had suddenly toppled forward, striking her head on the floor. From that time on she never recovered consciousness. Her face was not seen by any one except those who were in the house when she died.

It was covered before the body was placed in the coffin, the explanation given being that it had been so cut by the fall as to be unpresentable.

It had been intended to hold the examination yesterday but this was deemed unwise and a thorough postmortem examination will be held to-day.

It is an ugly thing to say of a man who occupies a good social position that he murdered his mother-in-law for her money. And yet this is what F. H. Dunton, an aged and wealthy gentleman, who lives at No. 22 Aldine square, accuses Dr. H. M. Scudder of having done. Scudder married an adopted daughter of Dunton, whose feeble wife had a large fortune in her right, which, up to her death, she had purposed leaving to some blood relatives, but which at the last moment, as she lay in bed but half conscious of what she was doing, as her husband alleges, she was induced to sign over to Scudder's wife.

On February 21 another physician was hastily summoned to her bedside, and found her expiring with ominous wounds in her head, produced by a fall from her chair as she was sitting up one day, Scudder says. As Scudder was the last man said to have spoken with her, and as he could not satisfactorily account for the wounds, suspicion fell on him. And so a warrant was sworn out for his arrest by Mr. Dunton yesterday, and as he is ill, he is being guarded at his house by policemen.

"Scudder was alone with my wife previous to her death," says the old gentleman in justification of his course. "The wounds on her head were not there before he came, nor was his explanation of the way in which they were caused satisfactory to me. More than this, she had altered her will in favor of his wife. Putting those things together I am convinced that the young man murdered my wife to gain her money.

ANOTHER OFFICER IN TROUBLE.

Pittsburg, March 4.—Theodore Myler, assistant postmaster of Allegheny City, has been arrested by the authorities charged with embezzlement and forgery. He has been connected with the office 20 years and his father is ex-postmaster.

MR. EGAN WILL RETURN.

Reported That He is Soon to Leave Chile.

The Whole Ministry Reported to Have Resigned—A Commission of Inquiry Wanted

New York, March 4.—A special to the Herald from Valparaiso says it is reported on good authority that Minister Egan will return to the United States in April.

Last night it was said that all the members of the cabinet had resigned but that they were holding a consultation with President Montt, the council of state and prominent political leaders.

From interviews had with prominent citizens of Valparaiso it would appear that they are anxious to have the American congress appoint a commission to visit Chile and to investigate fully all matters relating to the differences between the two countries.

Minister Pedro Montt has cabled from Washington his resignation of his post on account of his election as a deputy. The Chilean government will probably ask him to retain his post until his successor has been appointed.

ENGLAND IS UGLY.

Salisbury Placing Obstacles in the Way

Of a Settlement of the Bering Sea Question.

The Modus Vivendi Not to be Renewed,

And Seals Will be Slaughtered at Pleasure.

The United States Government May be Forced to Take Reprisal Measures and Shut Off Canada's Bonding Privilege.

New York, March 4.—A special cablegram to the Tribune from London says Lord Salisbury has informed the Washington authorities that he is unwilling, pending arbitration proceedings in the Bering sea dispute to consent to a renewal of the modus vivendi of last year. He is willing, however, to make the necessary steps for putting a stop during the coming season to pelagic sailing within 30 miles of the Pribyloff islands.

The Washington correspondent of the Tribune, who was ordered to make inquiries in the capital regarding the matter, telegraphs that the Tribune's London dispatch is practically confirmed there.

At any rate, he says, its correctness is not denied. The Washington dispatch continues:

"As long ago as last November Lord Salisbury began making difficulties and raising objections to a renewal of the modus. As these were not based, apparently, upon any substantial grounds little importance seemed to attach to them so long as the treaty itself referring the entire controversy to arbitration remained unsigned.

"Even as late as last week or about the time that Lord Salisbury finally agreed to authorize Sir Julian Pauncefote to sign the treaty there was no reason to believe that the British government would in the end resist a proposition so eminently fair and so absolutely necessary in order to protect from utter destruction the fast dwindling seal industry.

"It is difficult to imagine the reason for Lord Salisbury's refusal to renew the modus vivendi. Whatever it is, the practical effect will be the indiscriminate slaughter of tens of thousands of seals and possibly their extermination.

"The proposition which Lord Salisbury is said to be willing to entertain—to prevent seal from being taken within 30 miles of the Pribyloff islands—is assured on the face of it. It is absolutely impracticable, in fact so impracticable that it is difficult to believe that it was made in good faith. How is an imaginary line to be established in the neighborhood of these two islands, which are almost half the year hid in impenetrable fogs?

"The complications which may result from Lord Salisbury's refusal may prove to be the gravest nature. The president may see himself compelled to enforce the law which directs the seizure of poachers in Bering sea or he may deem it necessary to cancel, as a measure of reprisal, the valuable bonding privileges now enjoyed by Canadian railroads to the detriment of lines in the United States."

ENEMIES OF MONARCHY.

They Are Overrunning the Spanish Country.

The Government Has Issued an Edict and All Suspicious Persons Will Have to Leave.

Madrid, March 4.—The Spanish government is conducting an active inquiry as to the identity of all foreigners suspected of prompting or taking part in revolutionary agitation. All such will be given until the middle of April to get out of the country. Those who remain will be imprisoned or expelled.

The government has information that the chief agitators in the anarchist movement are from France, Germany and Italy, and their real aim is to bring about the overthrow of the monarchy, and the institution of a republic.

It has also been ascertained that their plans will mature about the first of May. By expelling them previous to that date it is hoped to crush the agitation before it has time for full development.

NEW YORK'S LIQUOR LAW.

It is Now Before the General Assembly.

A Compromise Measure Presented Which Will Very Probably Pass Both Branches.

Albany, March 4.—In the assembly today the liquor dealers' excise bill was favorably reported, but so amended that it is a compromise between those favoring the original bill and those who opposed it.

Of the five sections attacked by the opponents of the measure Sunday opening, eating house licenses, the spy clause, civil damage repeal and local option repeal, three have been stricken out entirely, leaving simply the spy clause and the civil damage repeal in. The Sunday opening clause has been entirely obliterated and the eating huse license clause also expunged. A new section has been added to the bill, providing:

Nothing herein contained shall apply to any town where the majority of voters have voted for, or shall hereafter vote for, local prohibition in accordance with any law providing for such voting, until such towns shall reverse by vote such local prohibition. The committee was unanimous in reporting the bill as so amended.

A bill was also favorably reported, making it unlawful for any person or persons to enter into any agreement whereby the prices or sale of goods or merchandise shall be limited, fixed or regulated.

FIVE MEN MISSING.

Lockport, N. Y., March 4.—Five men have been missing since the recent accident in the Niagara Falls hydraulic tunnel, and their bodies are supposed to be under the debris.

One of them is Charles Deggs, a negro, and the others are said to be Italians and Hungarians. It will be several days before the part where the bodies of the five men are supposed to be buried is reached.

SUICIDE IN COURT.

A Year Sentence too Much for a Convicted Negro.

Charleston, S. C., March 4.—A unique and dramatic incident occured in the court of sessions yesterday.

Sam Randall, a negro who has been tried three times for assaulting a negro girl named Clarinda Ressy and escaped twice by mistrial, was convicted. After conviction Randall was told to stand up and receive sentence, which the court fixed at one year in the penitentiary. While the judge was yet speaking Randall leaned down, whipped out a knife from his shoe, and deliberately cut his throat in the presence of the court, officers and spectators.

A couple of bailiffs grabbed him and prompt surgical aid was procured, which may save his life.

ASLEEP A YEAR AND A HALF.

The Regular Beating of Her Heart the Only Sign of Life.

Valparaiso, Ind., March 4.—Mrs. Mary Robinson, an inmate of the Starke county poorhouse, has been asleep 18 months. The regular pulsations of the heart alone indicate that she is alive.

When her eyelids are pried open her eyes stare into space, with no gleam of intelligence in them. A sound rap on the head or a pin thrust into the flesh causes no movement.

Milk, her only nourishment, is given her through a rubber tube inserted in her nose.

The sleeper is placed in a rocking chair during the day and at night is carried to her bed near by.

IN THE COMMONS.

London, March 4.—The Hon. Charles Foster, secretary of the treasury of the United States, accompanied by the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, the United States minister, was present in the ambassadors' gallery at the house of commons last night.

KIDNAPERS SENTENCED.

Bridgeport, Conn., March 4.—Charles Waterbary and Samuel Sutherland were sentenced to four years and John McCann to two years in the state prison to-day for kidnaping little Ward Waterbury some time ago.

IT WILL LEAD THE WORLD

Great Electric Company to Start in Chicago

And be a Competitor of the Thomson-Houston.

Millions of Dollars to be Invested and an Attempt Made to Handle the Trade of Two Continents.

Chicago, March 4.—The largest electric company in the world is about to locate in Chicago, making this the center of its operations in the United States.

The meeting for organization was held yesterday afternoon and all preliminary arrangements made for an early establishment. In comparison with the magnitude of the work contemplated by this foreign competitor the combined strength of the Edison and Thomson-Houston companies, it is said, will sink into relative insignificance.

The company will be practically an American branch of the Siemens & Halske company under the direct management of Mr. Meyssenberg and Mr. Wright.

Alexander Von Babo, who was elected to the board of directors, is a New York man, and an American representative of the parent company in a large number of other important interests. With the new company he is to act in the capacity of a directing engineer.

Bayley and Waldo are to be attorneys and G. H. Benjamin of New York will have charge of all affairs relating to patents and their litigation.

The plan of the company is to spend $500,000 in the construction of a temporary plant which will be in connection with that of the Wells & French company, of which Mr. Meysenberg is president. To this end the managers will turn their immediate attention.

In the construction of the permanent plant from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 will be invested. Eventually it is expected to make this plant larger than any of those now operated in Europe, and which employ from 12,000 to 15,000 men.

The new company, it is claimed, will have the advantage of the $40,000 capital of its projectors, and with the large number of valuable patents and applications for patents which it now has in the United States, will possess an enormous power from the start.

While the capital of the combined Edison and Thomson-Houston companies amounts to $50,000,000 it is claimed that dividends must be paid on $35,000,000, which has been spent in patents now worthless. The new enterprise is hampered by no burdens and claims an enormous advantage over its competitors on this ground.

HUNTING FOR A MURDERER

A Posse Has Surrounded Him in the Woods.

He is Well Armed and Will Make a Desperate Fight Before He Will Submit to Arrest.

Chicago, March 4.—A Tribune special from St. Joseph, Mo., says: At noon yesterday William Dettmar, who killed Charles Beeze last Saturday night in a village saloon row, and afterwards escaped, entered a store in the village of Bolckow, 12 miles east of here and purchased two boxes of cartridges.

He had two heavy revolvers belted around him and was riding a badly jaded horse. The store-keeper recognized him and immediately notified the sheriff. A posse was organized and a pursuit begun.

Dettmar's trail was taken up just outside the village and about a half mile further a farmer was met who had seen him enter a clump of timber.

As the man was well-armed and is expected to make a desperate fight the sheriff stationed his men at intervals around the wood and sent off a horseman to rouse the country.

The place where he is supposed to be hiding has been guarded all night and to-day armed men will search it thoroughly, and unless the fugitive manages to pass the sentries he will be taken dead or alive.

LOGS ON THE TRACK.

Attempt to Wreck a Nypano Train.

The Locomotive Ditched, but Fortunately No Lives Were Lost—Travel Delayed Four Hours.

Akron, O., March 4.—A partially successful attempt to wreck the westbound N. Y. P. & O. train was made in Akron at 7 o'clock last evening.

Logs had been placed on the track near the city limits and the engineer of No. 3, the through express, did not discover them until too late. The result was that his engine was ditched. The cars did not leave the track. No one was hurt, but the train was delayed four hours, it being necessary to summon a wrecking train from Kent to clear the track.

MET DEATH IN RUSSIA.

A Woman's Beauty Caused Her Murder.

A Sensation in High Russian Circles.

A Handsome English Governess Found Murdered Near the Barracks of the St. Petersburg Cavalry.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—The British residents of this city are greatly excited over the case of the English governess, who was foully murdered here some months ago, whose body has just been discovered.

The young woman came from England to be governess in the family of Mossolovsky, one of the most respected houses in the Russian capital. She was beautiful and above suspicion in conduct and it is not known that she had any male admirers.

As governess she was sometimes presented to the visitors at the Mossolovsky mansion and these included officers of the army and other officials who form a considerable part of St. Petersburg society.

The young woman attended the Anglo-American church. Last summer she suddenly disappeared. She had gone to church on Sunday, prayer book in hand, and never returned. Her absence remained a mystery, and when the prayer-book was found near the cavalry barracks, suspicion deepened that she had met with foul play.

It is now stated that the body of the young woman or what remains of it, has been found in a cesspool of the barracks, near which the prayer-book was discovered.

Suspicion attaches to officers and soldiers connected with the cavalry, but no definite evidence can be found to fix guilt upon them.

The British embassy has requested the authorities to make a thorough investigation, and it is said that one or more soldiers are under arrest with the object of ascertaining by the usual Russian methods what they know about the tragedy.

KILLED IN COLLISION.

Berlin, March 4.—An express train from this city and a goods train collided this morning at Bromberg.

A driver, a stoker and one passenger were killed and several passengers were injured.

CORBETT AND CHOYNSKI.

New Orleans, March 4.—In the Merchants' club of this city, at 2 a. m. a match was arranged between Corbett and Choynski for $5,000 a side.

TROUBLE IN BRAZIL.

They Cannot Keep Peace with Themselves.

Three Thousand Men in Arms a Porto Alegro Ready to Attack the Government.

New York, March 4.—The Herald's Montevideo dispatch this morning says that great opposition to the Brazilian government is reported from all the cities of Rio Grande do Sul.

Three thousand men are said to be in arms at Porto Alegro already for action.

At Riveira, Argentine, Brazilian soldiers are said to be committing numerous robberies. They are reported to have killed several Argentines. The populace is said to have taken up arms and to be resisting the marauders.

From Corrientes, Argentine, comes word that the provincial troops have revolted, mortally wounding Commander Soleto and one lieutenant. The insurgents are encamped outside the city.

KILLED BY A POLICEMAN.

A Tramp Shot Dead at Defiance.

He Made a Desperate Resistence to Arrest and the Officer Fired to Save His Own Life.

Defiance, O., March 4.—On the arrival of a Baltimore & Ohio freight train in this city yesterday afternoon two tramps were put off the train by the conductor.

The tramps engaged in an altercation with the conductor, who appealed to a policeman, John McGusheon, for assistance.

When approached by the policeman the tramps showed fight, and drawing large knives hacked him viciously.

One tramp, a burly six-footer, was shot through the heart by McGusheon and died instantly. The second was secured after a hard struggle, and was placed under arrest.

McGusheon immediately surrendered himself to the authorities.

The dead tramp was Jim Connera, of Worcester, Mass., and his partner John O'Neil.

NOAH PORTER IS DEAD.

The Ex-President of Yale Has Passed Away.

Brief Sketch of the Man Who Has Been for Years a Figure in the Educational Circles.

New Haven, Conn., March 4.—Ex-President Porter, whose death occurred at 3:30 a. m., had been in failing health for several years, partly owing to a stroke of paralysis, though his death was more directly the result of an attack of the grip several weeks ago.

Noah Porter, DD., LL. D., was born at Farmington, Conn., Dec. 14, 1811. He was the son of Rev. Noah Porter, who had been a minister at Farmington for 55 years and who died in 1866.

He graduated at Yale in 1831, was tutor there for two years longer, preached at New Milford, Conn., and Springfield, Mass., until 1843, became professor of moral philosophy at Yale in 1846, and succeeded Dr. Woolsey as president of the college in 1871.

He was the author of a number of important educational and philosophical works and was principal editor of the revised edition of Webster's dictionary. He was admittedly one of the most scholarly of American metaphysicians.

WON BY THE MINISTER.

New Bedford, Mass., March 4.—At the room of the New Bedford Athletic club last night about 500 persons assembled to see a fight between Billy Frazier, of Boston, the ex-minister, and Jim Murry, of Providence, for the light-weight championship of New England. Frazier knocked Murry out in the 15th round. Murry was badly punished.

LIKE A BAND OF CRUSOES

A Shipwrecked Crew on Socorro Island.

Such is Believed to be the Tahiti Sailors' Fate.

The Cruiser Boston Will be Asked to Call at the Island and Look After the Long-Lost Men.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—An interesting story accompanies the statement to the effect that the U. S. S. Boston would probably be called upon to go to an island off the west coast of Mexico to pick up the crew of an abandoned vessel supposed to be there.

The Boston is now on her way from Callao to San Francisco, and on her arrivel at Panama she will probably be met with a telegram ordering her to stop at the island of Socorro, to see if perchance there may not be there a band of shipwrecked sailors, who, of they are there, have probably given up all hopes of ever being rescued.

Among Secretary Tracy's callers yesterday was a Mr. Leavitt, who is a part owner of American brig Tahiti, that was lost, presumably, with all on board, He stated to the secretary that there was a possibility that the crew of the brig may have escaped and found refuge on the island of Socorro, one of a group of islands a couple of hundred miles off the coast.

The way he came to this conclusion was an interesting one. Some time after the date on which the Tahiti is thought to have been lost an unknown vessel was sighted, bottom up, near the coast, and soon after a vessel, supposed to be the Tahiti, was seen still nearer the coast.

Mr. Leavitt, on the supposition that it was the same vessel, and moving along at about the same speed, decided that she must have been near the island of Socorro when she was capsized on September 20. It was known that the abandoned hulk was without boats, and it is thought that the crew may have made their way to the island, which is a high one and visible at some distance.

The island is said to be rich in turtles and wild goats, enough to support life at any rate.

Mr. Leavitt's brother, who was formerly a consul at one of the Central American ports, was on board the Tahiti when she capsized. The island is but little out of the Boston's path home to San Francisco, and it was stated at the department to-day that she would probably be told to stop, on the chance of rescuing this band of Robinson Crusoes.

ALL CAUSED BY YOUNG RAUM

Work of the Special Investigation Committee.

Assistant Secretary Bussey on the Stand Guards His Statements Carefully.

Washington, March 4.—Assistant Secretary Bussey, of the interior department, who has supervision of the work of the pension bureau, appeared before the special pension investigation committee today. He related the circumstances of young Raum's resignation and the preemptory instructions of Secretary Noble to carry out the demand for his resignation.

Young Raum had denied the charges made against him and asked for a chance to make a defense.

Gen. Bussey stated he did not care to express an opinion as to whether it was proper to give a discharged employe one month's leave with pay. That was in the discretion of the secretary of the interior and he did not care to criticise his chief.

He had no knowledge of the appointment of Dr. Little on the medical examining board which, it was alleged, was illegal. He had no connection with the affidavits filed against young Raum by Howard and Engle, discharged employes of the bureau. The commissioner, he said, did not consult him in regard to the dismissal of those employes.

The commissioner, however, did tell him that he thought an employe named Taylor was conspiring against him and for the good of the office he would recommend his dismissal. Commissioner Raum told him that Taylor was giving information in regard to the office to the newspapers.

Secy. Bussey stated, in answer to a question, that it was often the case that discharged employes were not given an opportunity to make a defense.

"Do you not think good men are done an injustice by this action?" asked Mr. Enloe.

"It has been the means of restoring many of the employes to their old positions," said the secretary, "but I do not make the rules of the department and am, therefore, not responsible for them."

Continuing, he said that the demanded resignation of young Raum was not an act to shield any one in higher authority.

THE NEW HOUSE OF ISRAEL

It Stands in Danger of Falling in Detroit.

Long-Haired Individuals Who Have Gained the Enmity of the People.

Detroit, March 4.—A violent scene has been enacted in the Wayne circuit court here. The new and latter house of Israel is a novel religious society of recent growth here, whose members have purchased a number of houses adjoining each other, live in community and refuse to cut their hair.

The long-haired people have been eminently successful in breaking up families hereabouts, attracting the husband or wife to the community.

One of the victims is Joseph P. Richardson, a business man whose wife joined the Israelites, taking with her their little daughter. Richardson sued out a writ of habeas corpus, which was returnable yesterday.

An immense crowd attended court and filled the court house corridors. When an adjournment was taken the scene in the corridors was a wild one. The crowd hooted and jeered the long-haired disciples, and threatened to carry them to the river and drown them.

One excited individual proposed tar and feathers, and it but required a leader to put the threat into execution. The leader of the elect finally piloted them away without personal violence.

It is feared that their residences will be mobbed and the elect driven out of town. The religious society is a sort of free love affair.

HIGH ROYAL MIX.

Another Phase of the Indianapolis Strike.

Indianapolis, March 4.—The street car situation here has assumed the most ludicrous phase. The free ride badges which caused the trouble were returned to the men by Receiver Steele.

Later Judge Taylor directed Steele to recall them, which he did. Now the brotherhood employes refuse to surrender and Judge Taylor, it is stated, will have another strike on his hands.

Otherwise the receivership litigation is unchanged, but Judge Taylor intimates that he will return the property to the company this afternoon.

DIED AT SEA.

New York, March 4.—Anton Hostmann, purser of the North German Lloyd steamer Lahn which arrived to-day from Bremen, died of heart disease and was buried at sea.

DAMAGED BY THE STORM.

Ashbury Park, N. J., March 4.—The heavy sea caused by the storm has torn away nearly 100 feet of the bulkheading of ex-President Grant's old cottage at Elberon.

THE READING COMBINE.

Lawyers Arguing for the Three Companies.

Powderly Fails to Put in an Appearance, Much to the Disgust of the Attorneys.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 4.—Attorney General Hensel has heard arguments on the complaints made by A. J. Cassatt and T. V. Powderly against the lease by the Philadelphia & Reading railroad company, of the Lehigh Valley & Jersey Central railroad. All the arguments made were to show that the deal was not unconstitutional and consequently did not warrant the intervention of the courts through the commonwealth.

The Philadelphia & Reading was represented by John G. Johnson, James G. Campbell and Thomas Hart, of Philadelphia; the Lehigh Valley by Henry S. Drinker, Francis I Gowan and M. E. Olmstead of Harisburg, and the Central railroad of New Jersey by Samuel Dixon and Richard Dale of Philadelphia.

Mr. Johnson presented the original lease between the Reading and the Lehigh Valley railroads and Mr. Dixon the leases which consolidated the Reading and Jersey Central roads to the attorney general, who was told that as these documents were private he would be expected to return them after he had examined them without permitting any other person to see them.

After he had remarked that counsel for the railroad companies represented had expected that somebody would be here who would do more than write letters or make mere assertion, Mr. Johnson and his fellow lawyers, with several railroad officials, retired to an adjoining room to determine on the order in which their side of the case should be presented. Among those in the conference was A. A. McLeod, president of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad.

After a brief consultation, Mr. Johnson began the argument for the Philadelphia & Reading, the substance of which was that his company and the Lehigh Valley were neither parallel or competing within the meaning of the constitution, and that as the Jersey Central was a foreign corporation, Pennsylvania's organic law had nothing to do with it.

He had also contended that while there had been discrimination against the interests of the state under the old regime, the lease consummated by the Reading railroad would result in great benefit to the people of this commonwealth. Mr. Dixon followed for the Lehigh Valley, and Matthew Long, of Hazleton, spoke against the lease as the representative of the people in his city.

The attorney general will render his decision in a few days as to whether the complaints justify the state in appealing to the courts for redress.

Powderly was not present.

OLDER THAN THE NATION.

Granny Ridley Dead at the Age of 117.

Claims She Was Born Near Oxford, North Carolina in the Year 1774.

New York, March 4.—In the basement of a dingy-looking house, No. 758 Greenwich street, lies the body of a very old colored woman.

She died there Wednesday morning, and they say that she was more than 117 years old.

Her name was Lucy Ridley and she was born, her granddaughter, Rebecca Ridley, says, on the plantation of James Downey, near Oxford, N. C., December 22, 1774.

For nearly ninety years, Rebecca says, her grandmother was a slave. When James Downey died, long ago, Dr. James Ridley bought the girl. He, too, lived near Oxford. Lucy married and had children. The war came and ruined the Ridleys. "Then," said Rebecca, "'granny' was jus' turn out like a pooh ole played out hoss to die in ther fiel'."

But one of her sons-in-law took care of her for 14 years, and when he died Rebecca brought her grandmother to New York.

Lucy was a remarkably large and powerful woman in early life, being nearly six feet tall and weighing about two hundred pounds, but she was greatly shrunken and withered during the last score of years. She was able, with assistance, to walk up the basement steps until a year ago.

Since last summer she had been unable to leave her rooms. Two weeks ago her speech and eyesight, which had been fair up to that time, failed her entirely. Her mind, however, had been weak for a long time.

Four of the grandchildren and 33 of the great-grandchildren of Lucy are now living. Of the great-grandchildren 13 are in this city and 20 live in Tennessee, Georgia and Florida.

The graddaughter is very poor and it is likely that the city may have to bury the old slave's body.

THEY SCARED THE POPE.

Monarchies Take His Holiness to Task.

His Alleged Indorsement of a Republican Conservative Party Causes Trouble.

Paris, March 4.—A dispatch from Rome says that the pope recently sent instructions to the papal nuncio in this city urging him to further the formation of a republican conservative party in the chamber of deputies, this new party to act in the interest of the vatican, and to oppose the spread of radicalism.

According to the story which reaches here, when this became known, the representatives at the vatican of Germany, Austria, Spain and Portugal asked the papal secretary of state for an explanation of what was considered to be the pope's abandonment of his monarchical policy.

The vatican, it is added, was alarmed at the request for an explanation and replied that the instructions referred to would only apply to France, and that the vatican had no intention of displaying hostility to existing monarchical institutions or monarchs.

The remarkable growth which, till within two years, was brought about principally by one person telling another, is a monument to Garfield Tea's merits.

BIRTHDAY OF THE POPE.

It Was Celebrated in New York City.

Mayor Grant Kissed the Archbishop's Hand.

A Great Demonstration at Cooper Union in Which Dignitaries of the Church and State Meet.

New York, March 4.—Mayor Grant knelt at Cooper union Wednesday evening and kissed the hand of Archbishop Corrigan. All around His Grace were priests and dignities of the church and state. Among them were Father Wayrick, Father Daly, ex-Commissioner Mitchell, Judge Van Wyck, ex-Commissioner Coleman, Brother Anthony, Eugene Kelly, John D. Crimmins, Major J. D. Kiely, Frederic R. Coudert, Jos. J. Donohue and Judge Morgan J. O'Brien. Cardinal Gibbons sent a letter of regret, as also did Thomas L. James and ex-Mayor Grace.

The occasion was a grand jubilee demonstration in commemoration of the eighty-second birthday of Leo XIII., the 263d pontifical successor of St. Peter," by the Catholic Workingmen's Benevolent union.

Austin Ford, editor of the Freeman's Journal, presided. He described Leo XIII. as the workingmen's pope. James B. McGarvey, the secretary, then read a series of resolution. Before doing so he said a wrong impression prevailed that the meeting was called for a purpose different from that specified. Without saying so he implied that a rumor was current that the meeting was to be made a demonstration of approval of Archbishop Corrigan as against Dr. McGlynn. As he was reading the resolutions an old man who had shuffled himself to the front of the vast assemblage, shouted:

"Can you tell me why the pope excommunicated Dr. McGlynn, the greatest—"

The hall was in an uproar. The archbishop's smiling countenance became grave. The secretary continued to read, the priests laughed and the police pushed the old man out of the hall. Then after the resolutions had been read Brother Anthony's boys of Manhattan college sang "Our Flag," led by Mrs. Keough and Prof. Frank Dossert, organist of St. Stephen's, Dr. McGlynn's old church.

The resolutions were full of loyalty and veneration for the pope and the archbishop. The encyclical of his holiness was hailed as "a message of wisdom and love, and as an utterance of the supreme teacher of the Church of Christ. We accept it as a chart of guidance, and we will not only study its declaration of rights and its words of counsel, but will heartily accept them as our rule of action, firm in the belief that a practical application of its principles will verify the enlightened wisdom of this utterance."

Then the resolutions reviewed the advocacy of temporal power for the pope and requested the archbishop to see that the resolutions in some proper way be brought to the notice of the holy father.

For the archbishop there was this resolution:

"That we hail with delight the presence among us to-night of our beloved archbishop who, by the grace of God and the authority of the holy, apostolic and Roman see, has us now in his spiritual keeping; that we recognize in him a wise, faithful and devoted pastor who, we pray, may long be left to feed and govern the great flock assigned him here; that we tender him our grateful acknowledgements for this continued manifestation of his sympathy in our behalf and rejoice in the opportunity now presented of again renewing to him our pledge of love and obedience and the expression of our desire and determination to extend to him a hearty and enthusiastic support in all his efforts to further the great interests committed to his charge.

President Patrick Cunniam made a few remarks, there was more music and then the "address of the evening" was delivered by Edmund F. Dunne. He appeared in evening dress, a tall, powerfully built man, with a mass of curly gray hair. From the first he showed the natural instincts of an orator. His every gesture and intonation told. The platform had been kept free and he paced up and down it.

He breathed magnetism and his eyes fascinated the throng. Five thousand representatives of the greatest living force on earth were sending their message of love, he said, to the vicar of Christ. He commented on the pope's encyclical, in which his holiness combats the theory of the utilitarian economist that the poor man has no right to have a family. The pope held that the poor man did have that right.

Mr. Dunne then reviewed the history of the Roman Catholic church, saying that the first thing the pope did, when recognized by Constantine, and when the Catholic people had come forth in splendor from the catacombs, was to build hospitals throughout the city of Rome. For 1,200 years, until 30 years ago, the pope had reigned unmolested.

"And now the question is," said the speaker, "shall he have his temporal power back again?"

Cries of "Yes, yes!" rang through the hall, and the archbishop and the priests applauded gleefully with their plump, delicate hands.

"Americans tell us," continued the speaker, "that we cannot interfere. That we may be very sorry for the old gentleman, but that he didn't have the votes and so he must abide by the majority rule. But I say, 'how then do you justify having killed so many citizens in the late war?'"

"To support the union," said a priest on the platform.

"And we'll do it again for the same cause," shouted a voice in the rear of the hall.

"Didn't a majority of the citizens of South Carolina decide to withdraw from the union?" continued Mr. Dunne. "But you said to them, 'You shall not do it and break up the union. You never got your independence alone and unaided, and you never would have procured it by your own efforts.' And that is the same argument that should apply to the pope and his temporal power.

"When the people said they wished to go to Victor Emmanuel, we said to them: 'You did not gain your independence by yourselves.' And it is not certain that they did so really vote. We will let this movement encircle the earth until the hiss of hate will be lost in the diapason of love."

The resolutions were then carried, and then Archbishop Corrigan arose in the purple vestments of his high office, and after a few words of the warmest friendship for the workingmen and gratitude for the reception he had received, said he had informed the pope of the meeting and received an answer by cable.

He read the cable answer from the pope, which conferred the Pontifical benediction. The continued cheers that followed were like the enthusiastic outbursts of partisan approval for a presidential candidate. His grace bowed and smiled at the ovation.

DUBOIS HOLDS HIS SEAT.

Washington, March 4.—The senate has refused, by a vote of 55 to 7 to seat Mr. Claggett in place of Mr. Dubois.

VILE AND UNWORTHY

Of consideration are nostrums of which it is asserted—and there are many such—that they cure immediately bodily ailments of long standing. There are none such that can. Chronic disorders cannot be instantaneously removed. Continuity in the use of a genuine medicine, such as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, will eradicate chronic physical evils. Not the least of these last in the force of its opposition to medicine is constipation, to the removal of which, if persisted in, the Bitters is particularly adapted. Constriction of the bowels is a complaint which should be dealt with early and systematically. So are its usual attendants, liver complaint and dyspepsia. For these, for malaria, rheumatism, kidney trouble, and more recently "la grippe," this highly and professionally commended medicine is an undoubted specific. Nothing can exceed it, moreover, as a means of imparting strength to the feeble and nervous.

OVERWHELMING EVIDENCE!

Of the Success of Dr. Copeland and Associates at 706 Madison Street.

Statements that are Candid, Straightforward and Convincing, and From Persons Whose Evidence Is Beyond Dispute.

It is rarely that the specialist, whose observation covers a wide range of throat and lung troubles and whose experience brings him in contact with many of the serious and desperate cases resulting from neglected catarrh, sees a more pronounced case and one more typical of what head and throat trouble, if neglected or not properly treated, may develop into, than the case of Mr. Ancil G. Rice, of 219 Dix street. As near as possible we give his own words:

"My trouble has all been due to chronic catarrh," says Mr. Rice, "and it was not neglected, either, for I

Have Doctored for Years,

but been improperly treated. I had occasional violent headaches. My eyes were weak and watery and my nose was continually stopped up. I was forced to breathe through my mouth.

Ancil G. Rice, 219 Dix Street.

"My throat was always filling up with the dropping of the mucus from the head. I was hawking and spitting all the time. My throat was at times very sore and raw. My rest was poor at night and I was really unfit for business in the morning.

"As I said, I tried many prominent physicians, but experienced very little relief. I had heard and read of the success of Dr. Copeland and associates, and concluded to give them a trial. I did so with the result that my pains, aches and other troubles are all gone. The change in my condition is such that I unhesitatingly recommend Dr. Copeland and associates to all who suffer as I did."

NASAL POLYPI.

This Annoying and Painful Disease Described by a Victim.

(Nasal polypi are tumors that grow in the nasal cavities. They obstruct the passage of air through the nose, swell up in damp weather, or decrease somewhat in fair weather. They give rise to frontal headaches, fits of sneezing, coughing, asthma, facial neuralgia, pains in the neck and chest, and impair or destroy the senses of smell, taste or hearing. The breath often has a peculiar "mousy" odor, the margins of the nostrils become raw and excoriated, the eyes are watery and the voice has a nasal twang.)

"I had been troubled for a number of years," said Mr. George Hoffman, of 107 Empire street. "My head and nose was completely stopped up and I had to breathe through my mouth. This was due, in a measure, to the accumulation of mucus, but more especially to a number of polypi tumors which filled both nostrils. I had treated with a number of physicians but none of them discovered the tumors. Some time ago I called on Dr. Copeland and associates, and placed myself under their treatment. They immediately removed seven polypi tumors and I was able to breathe through my nostrils, something I had not done in years. They then treated my catarrh, and I am happy to say I am feeling better to-day than I have for years. The removal of the tumors was without the slightest pain or loss of blood. I cannot recommend Dr. Copeland and associates too highly."

FROM OUT OF TOWN.

Results in a Case Treated by Mail.

Portage, O., Feb. 9, 1892.

Copeland Medical Institute, Toledo, O.:

Gentlemen:—Since taking your treatment for catarrh, I am very much better. My general health is much improved, my sense of smell has returned. My case was a chronic one and will require time. I am greatly encouraged and anticipate a complete cure. Refer anyone to me.

Yours respectfully,
N. C. BESANSON.

ANOTHER INSTANCE.

A Prominent Real Estate Agent Tells of the Removal of Twenty Polypi Tumors.

Among the many prominent real estate agents in Toledo, none are more popular or more favorably known than Mr. J. J. Sumner, whose offices are at the corner of Superior and Madison streets, and who lives at 721 Prouty avenue. Mr. Sumner tells of his experience with Dr. Copeland and associates as follows:

"I had catarrh for a long time. My nose stopped up so that I could breathe only with great difficulty. In damp weather I could not breathe at all. I suffered from terrible, racking headaches. I often thought my head would burst with the throbbing and the pain. There was the constant flow of mucus from my nose, and my eyes became sore and watery. I did not sleep well, and I found that I was losing my sense of smell. I was most distressed, however, about my voice, which changed in tone until it sounded as if I pinched my nose with my fingers while talking.

"I was quite in despair, when after reading the testimonials of the patients of Dr. Copeland and associates I determined to make a trial of their treatment. I accordingly went to the Copeland Medical institute, and it was only a short time until I began to breathe through my nose, until the headaches disappeared and until the polypus growths were removed. I can now hear the natural voice that has returned to me, much to my comfort and delight. I sleep well and I feel well. I have only one fear, and that is that the polypi may return, so I have concluded to continue the treatment for another month, at the end of which time I shall be forever rid, I hope, of the complaint that for four years made life a burden to me. I am glad to add my small tribute of praise to the splendid work of these physicians."

McELROY.

MR. HARTER, FROM OHIO,

Has a New Solution of the Money Question.

He Would Like to Have Pig Iron Coined

Into Dollars Containing Three Hundred and Seventy and a Half Grains at the Will of the People.

Washington, March 4.—"If a free coinage bill passes congress, even if it is vetoed by the president, gold will be listed on 'change in New York for the first time since resumption day in 1879."

This was the principal statement in a letter from the president of one of the foremost national banks of New York, received at the treasury department to-day.

Representative Harter, of Ohio, who has given such hard knocks to free silver men in the last few weeks, has suggested a most important financial measure.

Mr. Harter said he had observed that silver bullion was owned exclusively by the republican bonanza kings of the senate and by their friends and coadjutators throughout the country, known by the generic titles of the silver ring and the lobby.

He said that at present any washerwoman or helpless soul in the land who wanted 371 1-4 grains of the bonanza king's silver could get it for 70 cents, while after the currency had been rendered elastic by Mr. Bland's patent she would have to pay 100 cents for it.

As this would make every washerwoman work 20 hours over her tub instead of 14, Mr. Harter felt, to put it mildly, it might seem a trifle hard upon her, and the least bit unjust to her helpless children.

He felt, in common with Mr. Bland, that the bonanza kings ought to be protected, and that it was hardly fair, in fact, unreasonable, to expect him to sell his silver bullion at the market price, just as any common farmer or manufacturer sells his products; yet he thought that something ought to be done for the other 63,000,000 of people.

In casting about for some way to assist the masses, and at the same time enlarge the currency and render it properly flexible, and, therefore, more available and useful, he has hit upon a plan which he thinks some humorous member should present in the shape of a bill which he thinks ought to be passed the day before the Bland bill becomes a law.

Mr. Harter says it will be noticed that the difference in the legal tender value given to the favorite metal of the masses is a trifle greater than the legal tender value given to silver by the Bland bill as compared with its market value.

He feels, however, that the fact that this measure will actually largely increase the circulation of money, whereas the Bland bill is certain to produce disastrous contraction, will be considered ample justification for the slightly higher relative value which this bill puts upon the metal of the people.

He also said that under the operations of the Bland bill now in force the silver ring since 1878 had been able to realize a very great many millions of dollars which had indirectly been taken from the pockets of the owners of the metal of the people, so that now, in providing for a fresh supply of the "dollar of the daddies," it was only fair to equalize the matter.

But here is the bill itself, and, but for the fact that Mr. Harter feels that the silver issue is too serious a matter to joke over, he would be likely to introduce it himself, and thus earn the gratitude of the people:

An act providing for the increase of the circulating money of the United States, to be presented by Mr. Bland and referred to the committee on coinage, weights and measures.

Whereas, Only a few republican millionaire senators and their friends, who constitute the silver ring and the lobby, own silver bullion, and

Whereas, The common people own none, the giving of a legal tender value of 100 cents by "free coinage" to what the other 62,000,000 or 63,000,000 of people can now get for 70 cents will injure, not aid, the common people; and

Whereas, Nearly all the common people own cooking stoves, pots, kettles and other articles made of iron, now, therefore:

Be it enacted, by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America, that 371 1-4 grains of pure pig iron or the products thereof shall hereafter be considered a dollar, and when such iron is presented to the treasurer of the United States of America at the than 371 1-4 grains he shall issue to the owner hereof legal fender coin notes of the United States of America at the rate of $1 for each 371 1-4 grains of iron so presented.

And be it further enacted, that anything in the constitution of the United States or in the intellectual or moral constitution of its people which conflicts with the terms of this act be, and the same hereby is, repealed and set aside forever.

BEST OF ALL.

To cleanse the system in a gentle and truly beneficial manner, when the springtime comes, use the true and perfect remedy, Syrup of Figs. One bottle will answer for all the family and costs only 50 cents; the large size $1. Try it and be pleased. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

WILL BE DEFEATED.

Washington, March 4.—The resolution of Mr. Bankhead, chairman of the house committee on public buildings and grounds, defining a policy in regard to the future action of the committee on public building bills, has met with disfavor by a large majority of the committee and an informal decision shows that the measure will be defeated in the committee by a vote of 2 to 1.

It is quite probable that you may need the services of a physician some day, but you can postpone the time indefinitely by keeping your blood pure and your system invigorated through the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Prevention is better than cure.

WYANDOT COUNTY.

Plenty of Candidates "Are in the Field."

Upper Sandusky, March 4.—(Special)—The democratic primaries for the nomination of candidates for the spring and fall elections occur in this county on the 5th inst. and 4th prox. respectively. A number of candidates are in the field, and both contests promise to be warm ones. The following is a list of those already out:

For fall election—County commissioner, Miles Mullholland, M. L. Rowland, Wm. M. Baldwin and Cornelius Gibson; for county treasurer, R. R. Dumm, second term; and infirmary director, George Ross.

For spring election—Mayor Upper Sandusky, Samuel J. Wirick, Joel Gibson and Henry Myers; city marshal, Paul Brobst, second term, and A. B. Hunt; city clerk, E. N. Haibedel, third term; city treasurer, Dr. G. O. Maskey and Frank E. Myers; assessor, First ward, A. F. Philbrick; assessor, Fourth ward, W. J. Schwilk; township trustee, George Adair, Conrad Stevens and Adam Strasser; township clerk, Wm. Bowsher; township assessor, Wash Gibson and G. S. Lowery; councilmen, Upper Sandusky, First ward, Adam Stutz, S. L. Bechtel and Herman Von Blon; Second ward, O. H. Roppold, Francis P. Smith, Frederick Moyer and D. Cramer; Third ward, Frank Sheally, A. R. Hunt, John Troutwein and A. Martin; Fourth ward, S. L. Walter and Wm. Taschanen; board of education, John Seider, Adam Pontius and Jonathan Hare.

CLAIMS PART OF TIFFIN.

A Woman Giving the People a Scare.

Seneca Saloonkeepers Inaugurate a War on Home Made Beer—A Mayor Buys a Horse Pelt.

Tiffin, O., March 4.—(Special)—The claim of Mrs. Lucretia Semple, of Des Moines, Iowa, now includes nearly all of the Second and Third wards of this city, and persons holding real estate in that portion of the town are becoming uneasy over the persistence with which she is urging her title.

Many letters have been received from her and other heirs in the west, and the leading abstractor in the city says that in some instances her title seems to be well founded.

The property holders are just now engaged in looking up their title and tracing them back to the original grants from the government.

The belief that the woman is a crank and that her claim is without foundation is not as prevalent as it was a fortnight ago, and it is believed that the validity of the claim will be settled in the courts.

A Beer War Is On.

Four of the leading liquor dealers of this city have formed a combination and are perfecting an arrangement to have outside lager shipped here by the car load. This is the result of difficulty with the local brewers. Recently several saloonists were prosecuted for alleged violation of the Sunday-closing law and the cases were fought by the liquor dealers' association.

The brewers failed to pay their share of the expenses incurred by the suits and the result is that the saloonists will sell no more Tiffin beer until the brewers come down with the funds.

Fooled the Mayor.

An unknown woman shrewdly defrauded J. E. Scott, marshel of the village of Republic, a few miles east of this city, the other day.

Scott is the proprietor of the village butcher shop and occasionally purchases hides from farmers of the vicinity. The woman sold the marshal what he supposed to be the hide of a mammoth steer, but which proved to be the pelt of a horse when he examined it a few days later. Horse hides are now a drug in the Republic market.

FACTS FROM FINDLAY.

A Board of Exchange Organized.

The Brilliant City to be Kept to the Front—Business Block Sold—The Beet Sugar Deal.

Findlay, March 4.—(Special)—The Findlay board of exchange has been reorganized for the purpose of inducing outside capital to come in here. Hon. D. Joy is president and C. A. Stockton secretary.

The new three story brick, the Foster block, on North Main street has been sold to Charles Hoyt, of Carey. He gives a 200 acre farm and $6,000 in cash for the block, which is valued at $30,000.

Another new handsome locomotive from the Rogers works, at Patterson, New Jersey, has just been received by the Findlay, Ft. Wayne & Western road. The equipment of the new line is first class.

A very large and enthusiastic meeting of business men was held at the court house last night, to take the necessary steps to awaken the interest, to close up the amount of acreage yet required to secure the proposed new sugar beet factory and refinery. It is thought the work will be closed up at once.

We use Alcohol

pure alcohol to make WOLFF'S ACME BLACKING. Alcohol is good for leather; it is good for the skin. Alcohol is the chief ingredient of Cologne, Florida Water, and Bay Rum the well known face washes. We think there is nothing too costly to use in a good leather preservative.

Acme Blacking retails at 20c. and at that price sells readily. Many people are so accustomed to having a dressing or blacking at 5c. and 10c. a bottle that they cannot understand that a blacking can be cheap at 20c. We want to meet them with cheapness if we can, and to accomplish this we offer a reward of

DISGUSTING FIND

By a Colored Man in a Vacant Lot—Trouble for Somebody.

A foetus, apparently about five months old, was found in a vacant lot at the corner of Tenth and Oak streets yesterday afternoon by a colored man named Ed Stone. He reported the matter to the police, and the unsightly thing was taken care of by the health department.

Several of these have been found in alleys and other places during the past year, and the matter is being thoroughly investigated. If the offenders are found they will be severely punished for an example, in order to stop such abominable business.

REV. VANCLEVE'S FUNERAL.

An Invitation Extended to Toledo Masons to Attend.

Past Grand Master Leander Burdick received a dispatch this afternoon from Grand Master Goodale informing him that a special train will leave Cincinnati for Milford on Sunday morning at 9:15 to convey all who desire to attend the funeral of the late Grand Chaplain, Rev. L. F. Vancleve. The Grand Master also desires an invitation to be extended to Toledo Master Masons in good standing to be present. The funeral will likely be the largest ever held directly under Masonic auspices in Ohio.

SPARRING EXHIBITION.

Some of the Lads Take Occasion to Knock Around a Little and One is Knocked Out.

Another clever sparring exhibition was given last evening at Jack Kerwin's rooms on Water street, and there was a good attendance of sports to see the fun. The program consisted of bouts between Jack Sullivan and Kid Bauman, Fred Schrein and Jack Foster, Tom Murphy and Pat O'Brien, John Johnson and Billy Mack, Frank Smith and Mike Bond, Billy Steffers and Able Jordan, Ed. Hawkins and Jim Sanders, and some very good work was done by the fellows, showing plenty of pluck, muscle and science.

The performance closed with a bout between Frank Schaff of Defiance and Billy Steffers. The former was done up in the first round by a knock-out blow on the jaw, and as he lay unconscious on the floor there the affair, but he recovered all right and the performance ended.

INTO A JUNKSHOP.

Judge Lemmon's Court Room Undergoes a Change.

Judge Lemmon's court has more the appearance of a junk shop to-day, than a temple of justice.

The case of the state against Frank Nadolski, charged with burglary and larceny, is on hearing. Nadolski it is alleged to have gone through Shultz's plumbing shop on Washington street and carried away an immense quantity of plumbers' fittings. The court room is literally covered with "T's," stop cocks, valves, joints, elbows, lead pipe and many other articles known to the trade too numerous to mention.

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION.

Prof. Demmon Delivers the Second Lecture on English Literature.

At the high school last evening, Prof. Demmon, of the University of Michigan, lectured in the University Extension course on "Bacon's Essays—A Code of Practical Morals." It was the second of a series of six lectures on English literature. The speaker dwelt on the life and character of Bacon, and showed what influences the period in which he lived might have had upon his character. Macauley's criticisms, he said, were regarded as unfair and misleading. Bacon doubtless had his faults, yet at the same time his ability demanded attention. The speaker reviewed Bacon's essays on revenge, friendship, love, etc., noting the important points. The writings of Bacon, he said, show intellectuality rather than spirituality. He wrote from the head rather than from the heart.

The lecture was full of interest, and was very instructive.

THE MERCHANTS' NATIONAL

Defendant in a Suit Growing Out of the Issue of Stock.

Quite an important suit was filed to-day in common pleas court against the Merchants' National bank. The action is instituted by Alletta B. Warn, administratrix de bonus non of the estate of Virginia B. Warn, to recover $10,000.

The plaintiff in her petition alleges that at the time of Virginia B. Warn's death, on October 17, 1877, she was owner of stock in the Merchants' National bank, amounting to $10,000, being 100 shares at $100 each.

The plaintiff further alleges that the defendant, the Merchants' National bank, wrongfully and unlawfully cancelled all of the certificates of stock belonging to the deceased and issued others in their place to parties unauthorized to receive them, and converted the stock to its own use.

It is further alleged that the defendant had been requested to issue to the plaintiff for the decedent's estate, stock to replace the same so converted, which they have failed to do.

STREETS AND SIDEWALKS.

Small Amount of Business Before the Council Committees.

Last evening was a quiet one at the council chamber, and the committees on streets and sidewalks were the only ones that held meetings.

City Solicitor Read reported on the matter of paving Fulton street from Bancroft to Cherry, and stated that the petition for the improvement was correct and that a majority of the property owners had petitioned for asphalt. He also stated, however, that several of the lots on the street did not front directly on the street, because of an old private alley about six feet of which lay between the lots and the street. This alley would protect these lots from the assessment.

Mr. F. B. Losee, owner of the alley, offered to dedicate it to the city, providing the street was not paved within two years. This the council refused to agree to, and approved a resolution to pave the street from Webster street to Bancroft, leaving out the part where the alley lay.

An ordinance was approved to turnpike Lee street from Walbridge avenue to Sumner street.

The matter of opening and widening Islington street again came up, and the property owners who previously opposed this improvement are now in favor of it. Mr. Huberich, however, was still against it, but after some discussion the resolution was approved.

The sidewalk committee approved several resolutions for new sidewalks.

THE GOLD CURE INSTITUTE.

Capital Subscribed, Headquarters Secured and the Business Will Move.

To the Editor: Respecting the establishing of a bi-chloride of gold institute in Toledo for the cure of the alcohol, opium and morphine habits, I wish to state that sufficient capital has been raised and commodious quarters, in the Hartford block, corner of Summit and Madison streets, secured, and the institute is no longer a contemplated enterprise but a veritable fact. The rooms are being elegantly fitted up and the Toledo Bi-Chloride of Gold Institute will be ready for the reception of patients in a few days.

The treatment of alcoholism has, in spite of denunciation from the medical profession, passed the experimental stage and is now being successfully treated upon scientific principles, and the result is marvellous, as thousands are to-day bearing testimony.

The treatment of patients in the Toledo institute will be under the direct supervision of Dr. Boyd, who for several years, as a specialist, has enjoyed a remunerative practice in the city of St. Joseph, Mo., and who, with the writer, has been forced to dismiss all skepticism respecting the efficacy of the treatment and assert without reserve, that the "alcohol and opium habits" can be cured, and the appetite for them removed, and that within a period of three weeks.

While the utmost privacy will be exercised, and every possible comfort be provided for the patients, members of the press, and reputable physicians will, with consent of the patients, be afforded opportunity to satisfy themselves as to the merit of the treatment.

Consultation is not only free, but invited, either in person or by letter.

Look for our announcement in this paper next week.

While the rooms are being put in order communications addressed to the writer, care of the Burnett House, Toledo, Ohio, will receive prompt attention.

PREACHERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS

THE VICTIMS OF CATARRH OF THE PHARYNX.

Eloquent Divines, Able Politicians, Eminent Scholars and Professional Singers Made Voiceless.

Extracts From a Lecture Delivered by Dr. S. B. Hartman, at the Surgical Hotel, Columbus, O.

An ordinary sore throat, by frequent recurrence, is apt to become chronic, so that the throat continues to be sore nearly all the time. This form of sore throat is known in medical literature as Follicular Pharyngitis. It is caused by excessive use of the voice, by confinement in close rooms in bad air, by undue exposure to cold, or by over-indulgence in smoking, but more frequently by catarrh and diphtheria. The symptoms are frequent hawking, especially in the morning, expelling from the throat with great difficulty stringy mucous, which produces gagging, and even vomiting at times. There is a raw, sore feeling in the throat, and when the slightest cold is taken the throat becomes inflamed and swollen. Instead of the smooth, pink look that the throat has in health, it looks angry, red and uneven, with occasional patches of white mucous adhering to it. It is sure to make much speaking, singing or laughing painful, and the voice will slowly grow hoarser and weaker. Nothing is surer than if this is allowed to go unchecked it will finally involve the larynx, and the voice will be seriously injured. It is also certain that unless something is done to stop it the disease will gradually extend down the bronchial tubes to the lungs.

Follicular Pharyngitis is the special bane of public speakers and singers, also people whose nervous system is depressed by organic disease of any kind. People who, for any reason are much confined to close rooms, are very liable to this disease. Anyone afflicted by this trouble is not only leading a miserable life, but the inflamed state of the throat renders him especially liable to acute disease of the throat, such as diphtheria and quinsy.

For this trouble in any stage Pe-ru-na is the pink of perfection. If Pe-ru-na were always used before the lungs became affected it would not fail to cure a single case. Numerous cases that have used gargles, wet packs, external and internal applications of all sorts, without avail, find immediate relief and cure by using Pe-ru-na. The fame of Pe-ru-na in all mucous inflammations is such that many doctors and druggists not only prescribe it, but use it as their own family medicine. As soon as its use in such cases is begun, the phlegm loses its sticky, stringy character, and becomes at first more abundant, but easily expectorated. The quantity grows gradually less, until, after several weeks' use of Pe-ru-na, it ceases altogether. The inflamed mucous surfaces and enlarged follicles show immediate improvement, and readily regain their natural appearance, by taking Pe-ru-na, without the use of any gargle or application whatever.

In cases of sore throat, bronchitis and consumption, where cough is a prominent symptom, it is better to add two ounces of rock candy to each bottle before using; then take according to directions on the bottle. In cases of dyspepsia and diseases of the abdominal cavity and pelvic organs, the directions on the bottle are sufficient. Cases of chronic catarrh in the head, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach and pelvic organs, of ten, fifteen, or even twenty years' standing, are constantly being cured by the use of Pe-ru-na. It has come to be a well-established fact that Pe-ru-na will cure catarrh in any stage or variety where the case is not complicated by any organic disease.

A valuable pamphlet of 32 pages, setting forth in detail the treatment of coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, consumption, catarrh in every phase of the disease, will be sent free to any address by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Co. of Columbus, Ohio. This book should be in every household, as it contains a great deal of reliable information as to the cure and prevention of all catarrhal and kindred diseases.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Provision for Increasing its Usefulness

Should be Made at Once—The City Has Grown Too Large to be Protected by the Present Force.

A bill is about ready to be presented to the legislature, to authorize Toledo to issue $100,000 worth of bonds for fire purposes. This bill has been approved by the council, and has received the sanction of nearly all the business men of the city.

Toledo's fire department is the same as 15 years ago, and in that time but one engine house has been erected. That was No. 3 on Jefferson street, which replaced the old engine house on Water street. Yet in that time Toledo has increased many thousands in population, and the buildings of the city have spread over an immense territory.

Many large manufactories have been erected on the outskirts of the city, and these are for the most part practically without fire protection.

On the west side of the city next to Auburndale, are the Milburn wagon works, Smead's foundry and other large factories, while the nearest engine house is over a mile distant.

There are large manufacturing interests and lumber yards at North Toledo, also a long distance from an engine house and almost without protection.

On the East Side the matter is considerably worse, as there is only one engine house to protect a territory eight miles long and nearly two miles wide. True, apparatus can go over from the west side, but the run is so long that a blaze will obtain an immense start before they can arrive. Down at Ironville are the Wheeling coal docks, a little way further up are located the Craig shipyards, the Malleable iron works and the great flouring mill and elevator of the National Milling company, besides a large number of residences. The engine house is over a mile away and the roads between are very bad.

Up the river at Southeast Toledo the situation is about the same.

This situation of affairs has made insurance rates much higher than they would otherwise be, and a fire at any of these points might easily result in a terrible conflagration. It has been mere good fortune that the city has thus far escaped a disaster of this kind.

The fire department at present is very efficient for its size; the men composing it are brave and able fellows, with a most capable chief at their head, but the force is not large enough, and there should be at least five more engine houses, fully equipped with men and apparatus.

The men owning property on the outskirts of the city pay heavy taxes and should be entitled to the same protection that any other citizen receives.

LETTER FROM CYRUS W. FIELD, JR

8 East 56th Street,
New York, May 8, 1883.

Several times this winter I have suffered from severe colds on my lungs. Each time I have applied Allcock's Porous Plasters, and in every instance I have been quickly relieved by applying one across my chest and one on my back. My friends, through my advice, have tried the experiment and also found it most successful. I feel that I can recommend them most highly to anyone who may see fit to try them.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

London wheat market opens firm. French country markets generally dearer, with frost. Liverpool wheat quiet, less demand. California 1-2 pence higher.

Liverpool received in past six days 498,300 bu of wheat of which 167,830 was American; and 490,000 of corn.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 491,278 bu compared with 206,277 bu on the same day last year.

Death of A. J. Sawyer.—Minneapolis, March 3.—A. J. Sawyer, the well known elevator and grain man, died this morning of a complication of diseases. He was the owner of a large elevator line in North Dakota and Minnesota, with terminals at Superior and Minneapolis. He was in Washington last week opposing the anti-option bill, and it is thought that overwork while there hastened his death.

Comment—We met Mr. Sawyer in Washington frequently during February, and in the best of health, apparently, and very active. His death is a shock and a great loss to all his friends.

The Kansas City Grain Trade News says: "The wheat crop has made positive progress through February, and now grain men, instead of fearing a partial failure, are actually talking of another bumper crop.

A Washington special says: Nothing is being done on the anti-option bill, either in the senate or in the house. It begins to look doubtful whether anything will be done in time for action at present session.

Comment—The above doubtless emanates from the enemy. Don't be misled by it. The supporters of the "option" bill, so-called, are "as busy as the d—l in a gale of wind," and are working nights and Sundays.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven western points are 38,000 bu less than yesterday and 185,000 less than the corresponding Friday in 1891.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were light in wheat, 258,424 bu and of flour to an aggregate of 550,000 bu. Corn 739,279 bu. Oats 535,169 bu.

English markets as reported herein are stronger, and on some deals higher for wheat and corn.

Harbors.

The rivers and harbors committee of the house of representatives, have called a halt on the deep water, or 20 foot scheme of improvement of the lake connections. The absolute necessity for a corresponding depth in the lake Erie harbors loaded the measure with so great an additional cost that the committee naturally shrank from adopting it. Toledo and other ports, while favoring Gen. Poe's improvement, insisted upon the commencement of the deepening of their harbors at a date corresponding with that of the lake connections, to be ready to admit the cargoes of these 20 feet carriers. That is the logical and fair position of the lake Erie men, and the committee have done wisely in assuming that position. To appropriate a sum now, sufficient to develop the entire plan would defeat what is more necessary and urgent.

The Markets To-day.

Cold and unfavorable weather in England and France excites solicitude concerning the growing wheat, and English and French prices are dearer. It is the critical month there, as well as here. Reports from our own crop on the whole are encouraging. No losses are yet ascertained, but it is too early to determine even what has accurred, saying nothing of the future.

The firmer foreign markets fail to give much impression on prices on this side, more than to steady them. The outward movement this week has been light, and does not promise much reduction in the visible supply. To reduce this visible wheat on both coasts, now near 63,000,000 bu, to 20,000,000 bu by July 1, we should get an average weekly decrease of 2,500,000 bu. It is not necessary that we reduce it at all, if our own crop or foreign crops should be deficient. That's the question.

There has been about the usual wabbling in the wheat market to-day without much significance. The foreign news was bullish, but our weather conditions and receipts and exports were of the opposite character, and while wheat gained 1-2c to 5-8c, it lost it again and closed about where it did yesterday.

Corn was firm east and west and the soft damp weather helped the markets for cash and near by delivery, while May was unchanged.

Liverpool, Paris and Berlin are reported as closing a shade higher.

In New York February wheat closed 1-4c lower, and May 1-3c up. February corn 1-4c higher; May corn and oats steady.

In Chicago, February wheat closed 1-4c up, and May 1-8c. February corn 3-8c, and May 1-8c higher. May oats 1-8c higher.

In Toledo, business has been very dull. There was no life or animation in the wheat deals and the market dragged along without orders from the outside, for either buying or selling. May wheat opened a shade higher and was steady, closing where it did yesterday. On the call May sold at 96 3-4c, and July at 91 1-2c. After the call May sold at 96 5-8c and closed at 96 1-2c. July sold at 91 5-8c and closed at 92c, a gain of 1-4c. Nothing done for August.

Cash wheat was firm and a little more active. No. 2 sold at 96c and closed at 96 3-4c, a gain of 1-4c. No. 2 white at 49 1-2c. Other grades not dealt in. Corn—No. 2 at 41 1-2c. No. 3 at 41c. No. 4 at 39c to 39 1-2c. No. 2 yellow at 42 1-2c. Nothing in rye and oats.

Clover seed was on the rampage. Prices advanced 25c bus. with considerable excitement, and the closing prices were the best of the day. Prime for cash $6 50 to $6 55; March at $6 42 1-2 to $6 55. No. 2 at $6 25 to $6 35.

Seed Market.

London, Feb. 15.—The depression and losses in the corn trade, in which so many dealers are interested are not without interest on the seed market, checking all desire on their part to bring seeds till they actually require them. This renders our business quiet, but the prices are well maintained, stock being far from heavy. Values of clovers are unchanged. Italian ryegrass is rather more inquired for. Tares only sell in retail. Rapeseed is firm. Birdseeds dull. Blue peas continue very quiet.

Governments steady; currency, 6s, 109 bid; 4s, coup., 117 1-4 bid; extended 2s, registered, 100 bid.

The stock market was fairly active this morning. In the two hours to noon 262,000 shares had been sold. The trading in New England was still on a very large scale. The opening prices were irregular. New England and Richmond Terminal, however, were very weak and declined 1 1-8 and 1 per cent, respectively. On the other hand Lake Shore was especially strong and advanced 2 per cent. to 130. Erie preferred advanced 1 1-2 to 77. The other stocks were firm and fractionally higher. After the first call Jersey Central and Chicago Gas suddenly became prominent. Jersey advanced 1 1-4 and Chicago Gas 1 3-8. The general list improved slightly in sympathy. In the hour to noon the market was not so active, while the tone was weak. Reading declined 1 1-8 and Lackawanna 1 7-8 per cent., and the whole list sagged under their lead. At noon prices were but little changed from those of yesterday. At this writing the market is dull.

New York, March 4.—Flour dull and without material change; superfine, $2 85@3 25; fine $240@3 15; city mill extra $5 00@5 15 for West Indies. Sherman on bossism comes pretty near being the burlesque of the hour.

Let the band practice "See the Conquering Hero." Egan is coming home.

One year from to-day a democrat will be inaugurated president of the United States.

Magnanimous Ingalls! He says the reason he goes back into politics is because he thinks his party needs him. But no one heard the party grumble at all at his quiescence.

According to the present indications it will take a pretty big bucket of whitewash to cover the Raum family after the investigating committee get through with them. After all, Tanner, Raum, et al., are right in line with their party and its methods.

"A reciprocity treaty with France will make free-traders blue" is the declaration of an organ which is not posted on the primary lessons in political economics. Reciprocity, even the Blaine amendment to the McKinley bill with its unwarranted presidential attachment, is a move in the right direction. It is free trade in spots.

Great chuckling over the straits to which the democratic congress is put by the clamor for appropriations on one hand and an empty treasury on the other. Republicans found it great fun to scatter the treasure and are enjoying the worries of their successors, but the people are taking notes and the day of accounting will come.

Mr. Murphy's first letter from Pittsburg begins to show the niggar in the pump woodpile. Somebody is wishing for a big commission and the tax payers of Toledo are expected to pay for the job. Pumping gas may be the best thing for Toledo to do, but the present scheme is the most rotten of all the jobs that have been put up in the name of loyalty to the pipe line.

The boodle of New York state's republican monopolists and millionaires could not purchase the allegiance of its honest democracy; but the disapproved methods of its own self-aggrandized leaders brought swift results. Let not the republican party flatter itself; revolt against one man or ten men doesn't mean a relinquishment of principle or a political change to be counted upon.

Even the loyal Toronto Empire scores that special syndicate correspondent of English newspapers who suggests that the Volgans whom the Czar of Russia will expel from his country, and whom the special s. c. found living in holes in the earth and subsisting on roots, "would make desirable colonists for Canada and the United States." This is too much for even the loyal tory Empire to stand.

Judge Thomas, the South Dakota jurist whose decision brought the manifesto from Secretary Blaine said, to an interviewer, "I am sorry if my words seemed harsh; I spoke only from the testimony before me; am heartily sorry for Mr. Blaine and his family; admire the defense of his wife and think now the matter should be dropped from public view." Very sensible though the Secretary will probably not return thanks for the sympathy when he has to draw his pocketbook for the support of the mother of his grandson.

With every echo of the cry of starvation that comes from the labor districts of the old world, the republican Christian philanthropists in this country rub their hands gleefully and say "the McKinley law did it." That the extravagance and oppression of royalty, army, and aristocracy, of hereditary monopoly of land and treasure and wicked laws for the support of favored classes, have all to do with their wretched condition and the McKinley law was simply the proverbial last straw, makes no matter. It is the rejoicing of our good people over the woes of the foreign pauper, heightened by the belief that the republican party did it, that is specially noted.

The London Daily Graphic is publishing a series of letters on America, written by one Mr. Woodall, who went to Chicago, and of which he says:

Chicago is, on the whole, unpleasing in its impression on the British eye, and in no respect equal to London, or even to Liverpool. There are no buildings like Windsor castle or the Tower of London to throw the glamour of history and romance over the great meat-dressing establishments, and many of the common people cannot be distinguished from the superior classes in appearance.

Chicago doesn't want any "glamour" thrown over things; coal smoke is quite as good as London fog and soot combined. And as for the castle and tower, if Chicago wanted them she would buy them and bring them over. It troubles us natives, too, to distinguish between the aristocracy and the common people. Mr. Woodall didn't know where to look for polaters. The people who work and think in this country have an air that is confusing, and the "superior classes" haven't yet learned to work the single eye-glass to make the distinguishment the more pronounced. But, be patient, Mr. Woodall; we're striving that way with commendable effort. Just now, look in the society columns of the newspapers where, in marriage notices, death notices and social functions the size of the dollar mark attached proclaims the superiority. It's quite too bad about it all. The slaughter of hogs by the thousand can't take the place of the smothered princes in the tower and the finger marks of human blood on every stone in its walls. It's a gone case so far as Chicago and the English special syndicate are concerned.

Even little Rhoda is a badly gerrymandered state. It was nipping work to do it but the republicans are equal to the task. Davis, democrat, received a plurality of 1,254 votes last year, a goodly number considering the small vote cast by the whole state. The Prohibitionists cast 1,189 votes and there was no election by the people. It went to the legislature. The senate stood, 28 republicans and 9 democrats; the house, 52 republicans and 20 democrats, giving them 51 on joint ballot and they elected Ladd, the defeated, governor. Even this is not enough. There are indications of possibilities, and more tinkering is being done to make sure of the next legislature which elects a United States senator. In one recently arranged district are but fifty voters and in one contiguous, nearly a thousand. And President Harrison's message with its pious abhorrence of such trickery (in the state of Alabama) was circulated in Rhode Island, same as in Ohio. But the party knows its man. He meant nothing.

A GREAT SPEECH.

Representative Heller emerged from Mr. Griffin's coat tail pocket long enough yesterday to make a speech.

It was a great effort.

One that will "thunder down the ages."

It was not long, but it was what he said that still reverberates.

Said he:

"During the war the boys in blue who drank the most whisky were the best fighters."

Then the statesman crawled back into Mr. Griffin's pocket and was heard no more.

The speech was hilariously eloquent and sparkled like champagne.

It ought to be posted on the walls of Memorial Hall ,for Heller's soldier constituents to read.

THE PEOPLE VERSUS THE MACHINE.

When such a general local revolt against machine methods as is now reported from New York occurs it is the most healthy sign of the power of the individual in the government of the republic. The political machinist whose ambition leads him beyond the people is generally soon without a job. Senator Hill was a popular leader so long as his efforts were directed against the bad methods of the republican managers, but when he attempts to make his own ambition the magnet of democratic hope and reliance—the only leadership for the national democracy—his own people revolt and assist the party in national convention in setting the man and his methods back in the ranks. The local elections in New York are surprisingly republican. They indicate trouble which can be overcome only by the wisest and fairest dealing in the coming campaign.

One thing the revolt has demostrated—that Mr. Hill is not strong enough, of himself, to carry New York. He may be able, having control of the state delegation, to defeat the nomination of Grover Cleveland. Possibly that is all he desires. He may also be the chosen of the Lord to teach the democrats that they must some day look to other states for candidates and electoral votes. If so, amen to the row and the revolt. There is good eastern democratic presidential timber—Abbett, Pattison, Russell, and Gorman, and the west is full of first and second growth hard wood presidential stock. The party at large is learning much from the New York brethren, and nothing is more likely to inspire confidence in good politics than the present revolt against bad politics.

STILL TRUE TO CLEVELAND.

A Georgia Eulogy of the ex-President—His Nomination Advocated.

Atlanta, Ga., March 4.—An address to the people of Georgia, signed by the members of the Cleveland Central Campaign Committee, concludes:

"The unfair and un-democratic action of the machine in New York indicates a purpose to make the will of the people subservient to the greed of the politician. We therefore believe that the time has come for the active and resolute organization of the democratic masses in Georgia, lest the sentiment of the people in this state, as in New York, find expression through the machinations of political intrigue.

"Grover Cleveland is undoubtedly the choice of the democracy of Georgia for the next presidency. His strength is among the people. If there is a resolute massing of this strength nothing can stand in the way of a solid delegation from this state pledged to his support. But there must be thorough organization in every county. Fighting in the cause of Cleveland is battling for the rights of the people. He is the soundest exponent of popular rights this country has ever seen. He has so impressed his individuality upon the general government that he stands pre-eminently the greatest American of the day.

"When Richard Croker, Tammany's chief, though pledged to another, says that 'Cleveland can carry New York,' he states a truth which paralyze a claim made with a view to catch the support of those who follow blindly the ends of expediency. Cleveland cannot only carry New York, but he can sweep the country. Organize and save your party from defeat; the success of Cleveland is the triumph of the people."

NEW CORPORATIONS.

Columbus, March 4.—The following articles of incorporation were filed in the office of the secretary of state to-day: East Hamilton Church of Christ, Hamilton; the Buckeye Paint and Varnish company, Toledo, increase of capital stock from $50,000 to $100,000; the Pride of the West Knights of Pythias, No. 50, N. and S. A. E. and A., Columbus; Wayne Regular Baptist church, Wayne township, Knox county; the Wade Street Smoking Casino company, Cincinnati; the Buckeye Stone company, Galion, capital stock $20,000; the Soss Refining company, Akron, capital stock $10,000; the City Savings Bank company, Alliance, capital stock $100,000.

EASY POLITICS.

Quebec, March 4.—Three of the candidates nominated on Tuesday to run at the coming provincial elections have retired. In consequence the following have been allowed to be elected without opposition: Louis Braubin, minister of agriculture, who will represent Nicolet; Felix Carbrey, conservative, who will represent Quebec West, and G. N. Parent, liberal, who will represent St. Sauveur. In all seven conservatives (including three ministers) and two liberals have been allowed to go in unopposed.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett has opened a printers' boys' club in Kemble street, London, and on Saturday evening presented it with a library.

Miss Anna Dawes, daughter of Senator Dawes of Massachusetts, recently visited Vassar college, and gave an interesting talk on the Indian question.

Dr. Danlon, of Paris, claims to have discovered a method of introducing medicines into the body through the mucous membrane by means of electricity.

John I. Blair, one of the founders of the Delaware, Lackawana & Western railroad, although 90 years of age, attended the annual meeting of that corporation on Wednesday last.

Mrs. Tei Sone is the leading lady lawyer in Japan, and has a large and profitable practice. But she couldn't resist the temptation to leave it for a season in order to come to this country to lecture.

Rudyard Kipling and his wife are said to be jointly at work upon an American novel, the most stirring chapters of which will be found in the inspiration of happy moments between spells of sea sickness.

Mrs. John T. Adair, the American wife of an Irish gentleman, has an Irish castle, an English estate, and a big Texas cattle ranch, but discards them all for the charms of London. She was a Miss Wadsworth, 20 years or so ago, a member of a well-known Tennessee family of that name.

Lieut. Powhatan H. Clarke, U. S. A., at present on duty in a German calvary regiment in Germany, has at his own request been ordered home. Lieut. Clarke was assigned to duty in the German Hussars at the request of the German government, and has served nearly a year, becoming acquainted with their tactics and military evolutions.

MENTIONED ON THE STREETS.

That public school pupils are longing for the Easter vacation.

That Judge Lorenz may be one of the democratic nominees for gas trustee.

That the Lima bank failure did not create a ripple in Toledo's financial circles.

That the florists are happy over the season's business, and of right ought to be.

That Gus Machen will not accept the nomination for alderman in the Seventh ward.

That Billy Vena might scoop in a penitentiary guards' berth, if he should try real hard.

That the two-story addition to the Boody house, talked of last fall, has not yet materialized.

That the presentation by Sara Bernhardt of Cleopatra would give more satisfaction than La Tosca.

That the Griffin judicial bill will not become a law this session, whatever may be the outcome next winter.

That the caucus packers are in hard lines this spring, as both parties select nominees on the same evening.

That candidates for municipal honors, at least on the democratic side, will have to print or write tickets for the caucus.

That the local sports were away off in their calculations as to the winner of Wednesday night's fight at New Orleans.

That almost every town of any size in the state of Ohio has a clearing house except Toledo, a city which should have one.

That there are only ten applications for chaplin of the penitentiary, and for a wonder there is not a Toledo man among them.

That the burning of the Indianapolis reform school by inmates calls to mind the fate which befell the Toledo house of refuge.

ENGLISH ELECTIONS.

The Chertsy Division of Surrey Returns a Tory.

London, March 4.—The polling yesterday in the Chertsy division of Surrey, for a successor in parliament to the late F. A. Hankey (conservative), has resulted in a victory for Mr. Combe, the tory candidate; but this does not surprise anybody as Chertsy has long been a conservative stronghold and the liberals were only hopeful of reducing the tory majority.

The voting was as follows: Mr. Combe (conservative), 4,589; Mr. Baker (Gladstone liberal), 2,751; tory majority, 1,838.

At the last election Mr. Hankey was elected without opposition. The population of the division is about 52,000 and there are over 9,000 voters among them.

MRS. BOOTH'S WORK.

Mrs. Bramwell Booth, well known for her interest in all kinds of charitable work, has herself taken a special field which, to say the least, taxes her philanthropy to the utmost. For some time past she has been doing what she could to lessen the amount of child starvation which is going on every day in London, and that within a stone's throw of the fashionable and business quarters of the city. "It is no light task," writes Mrs. Booth, "to provide 500 little mouths with steaming hot tea and cocoa at 8 each morning. But how great is the need may be estimated by the fact that at one school, with an average attendance of 1,700 children, it was ascertained that 700 came without having had any breakfast, and with small prospects of either tea or dinner."

It is sad and terrible enough to think of grown people having to go hungry and unfed, but it is doubly pathetic to see so appalling a picture of starving little ones. Mrs. Booth is doing a noble work and one that should enlist the aid and encouragement of humanitarians everywhere. It is such women as her that add a crown to the glory of womanhood and who well deserve the title of angels of mercy among men.—Chicago Post.

PUMPS VS. PRESSURE.

Private Seance Between the Committee and Mr. Pew,

Who Insists Newspaper Men Must be Excluded

From the Conference at Pittsburg—Mr. Murphy Gathers Some Information on His Own Hook—In the Field To-Day.

Pittsburg, March 3.—When the gas investigating committee, including Mayor Emmick, Messrs. Lane, Forbes and Tucker, supplemented by Gas Trustees J. W. Greene and three newspaper men entered the Seventh avenue hotel this morning, after an all night's ride over the Pennsylvania, they were greeted by Mr. J. M. Bloomer, and by him presented to Mr. John L. Hull, of the Hull Steam Pump company, this city. Mr. Hull is the manufacturer of the much-talked of gas pump. Inasmuch as the committee's maneuvers were very quietly, not to say secretly transacted, since leaving Toledo, it was a singular coincident, to say the least, to run up against Mr. Hull the first thing. It was opportune, too, for what Mr. Hull doesn't know about gas and gas pumps, his agent, Mr. Gerdes, does.

Mr. Hull at once proceeded to give the committee some points on pumps.

"How many pumps have you in operation?" a Bee asked him.

"About 11, I think."

"Have they proved successful?"

"Yes, very much so indeed. We are using them in the Murrayville field with much success."

The Murrayville field, it may be incidentally remarked, is dry and shows no indications of oil and little salt water. Knowing this fact the Bee asked him:

"Where are the pumps used—in wet or dry territory, Mr. Hull?"

"Indeed I cannot tell you. Mr. Gerdes, our agent, will be here in a short time and he will tell you."

"Do you think they can be successfully used on a line the wells attached to which show considerable oil?"

Mr. Hull referred this question also to Mr. Gerdes.

Mr Gerdes came in a moment later and upon being introduced the Bee propounded the same question.

"I don't just know how they could be used in oil territory," replied Mr. Gerdes. So far we have had no experiments in what you call wet territory."

"Let me ask you another question. Supposing the pressure is removed or lessened on a so called wet well—a well showing oil or salt water—what will be the result to the line or the well?"

"I really cannot say, but it may not follow that the application of pumps will reduce the pressure to any perceptible degree."

Mr. Gerdes dodged the question, but it stands to reason that if the pressure, which alone keeps out the oil and water, is removed the oil and water will rush in.

In the meantime Mayor Emmick was making telephonic connections with Mr. Pew, of the firm of Pew & Emerson, the well known oil men.

Mr. Pew said he would wait on the committee at the hotel to explain to them in detail the workings and operations of the pumps controlled by him in the Murraysville field. The committee proceeded to a room in the hotel, and a few minutes later Mr. Pew appeared. He absolutely refused to say anything on the matter until reporters left the room. He said he did not propose to give away the business secrets of the firm or the plant. The newspaper men were accordingly ejected.

While the star chamber session was in progress the Bee representative took a little investigating trip on his own account, and perhaps he has secured outside information that will be as interesting to the committee as they secured from Mr. Pew.

The Philadelphia Natural Gas company is right across the way from the hotel. Superintendent Benny, an obliging and courteous gentleman, placed himself at the Bee's disposal for a half hour's interview.

"What do you know, Mr. Benny, of Mr. Hull's gas pumping apparatus?"

"Very little indeed. There seems to be a great deal of secrecy connected with it; although I have made a couple of trips to Mr. Pew's pumps in the field, I have been unable to see the operation."

"What is the rock pressure of your gas in the field?"

"Rock pressure about 25; line pressure about 10. We bring it to the city in a 36-inch main."

"How many wells have you got attached to your lines?"

"Oh, about 225, but we have dropped a great many more than that as dead. Probably 300 or 400. By the way, we struck a very fine well yesterday, almost in the city limits, of 700 pounds pressure."

"What is your idea, Mr. Benny, regarding the continuance of gas?"

"Well, that depends. I believe that gas companies will find it necessary to keep securing new territory and drilling more wells. It is the only way to secure the success of this business. Otherwise it is going to be a failure in my opinion."

"Cannot pumps be used successfully?"

"Perhaps, but as I said, I know but little about pumps, but I know this, pump or no pump, wells will give out. In any territory pumps will become a failure in a short time."

"From your knowledge of gas, Mr. Benny, what would you think the result would be of placing pumps on the line the wells attached to which show considerable indications of oil?"

"Well, I should say it would be injurious, for this reason: Remove the pressure, as you certainly will in using pumps, and the oil or water must flow into the line. Of course there is a means of separating the gas from the oil in such an event, but it is a great deal of labor and does not always pay."

"Do you know if Mr. Pew is connected with the Hull Steam Pump company?"

"I do not. I believe he holds the patent on the pumps, but I cannot say that he is financially connected with that institution."

"Do you think that the removal of the pressure by pumps will be injurious to the wells in which there are signs of oil?"

"I do; and it stands to reason that it must be injurious. Oil and water, when they are present in such cases, must certainly follow gas."

"What do you sell gas for here?"

"Thirty cents. The various companies have agreed upon the price and the consumers think it is economical."

Mr. Benny did not know the exact number of consumers he had on the line but thought there were some 20,000, besides supplying quite a number of mills, the firm will buy more territory and sink more wells. The company will have plenty of gas for a long time to come.

It may be incidently remarked here that it requires 500 horse power to run one of these pumps, and authorities on the subject say that no pumps can be used only on groups of wells. For instance, the Stuartsville field would need a pump and a group of city wells in another direction would also need another, and so on.

The cost of a pump is about $20,000, and the cost of operating will always be expensive. It is said that Pew & Emerson are using, as fuel, crude Lima oil in place of gas. Gas, they say, is worth 20 cents and crude oil comes cheaper.

The Philadelphia company has 720 miles of pipe laid, and is continually laying and improving its territory wherever required, and extending its lines, north, east, south and west, in all directions. Mr. Benny informs me that they are now negotiating for a 12-inch line east of the city, out some 10 or 12 miles on some newly acquired territory. The company has, in the course of its operations, removed some 12 or 15 lines. Some idea may be obtained from this of the cost of operating a successful gas plant.

Mr. J. I. Buchanan, a director of the West Virginia Natural Gas company, was also seen by the Bee. Replying to the question if he thought the new gas pumping apparatus a satisfactory expedient in place of pressure, he said:

"Our company has considered this matter; I look upon it from a purely commercial standpoint and have steadily and persistently voted against the use of pumps."

"Don't you think it would be successful?"

"Well, I do not know but it might, but still it is only an experiment, and I for one would not care to put any $50,000 or $100,000 into trying the experiment. Of course I do not know anything about the value of this pumping apparatus. I look at it from a purely commercial standpoint."

Mr. J. J. Vandergrift, one of the best-posted gas men in the country, also submitted to an interview.

"I am afraid of this pumping business," he said. "No tests have been made and the papers have refrained from saying anything about it. If Mr. Pew has as good a thing in them as he seems to think he has, he would have something to say before this in the papers. This is one thing that makes me a little careful about taking any stock in it. Yes, I understand Mr. Pew holds the patent on the pumps, and is therefore more or less interested. I do not know whether he has a financial interest in the concern. We have investigated this matter, and while our superintendent has not yet reported I do not think much will come out of it. If the experiment, and it is only an experiment, be a failure, it would be a pretty expensive one. Mr. McMurtry, of the Fuller Iron and Steel company, of this city, sent a man down to investigate it and his report was that it was an expensive experiment to try and that the chances of success were limited. This is what Mr. McMurtry told me. Some years ago I had some experience in this gas pumping business and it was a flat failure. Mr. Cameron, the well-known New York pump manufacturer, came to me and offered to put in a pump that would transmit gas, for $5,000. I told him I would give him $10,000, on condition that he would put up the pumps and operate them successfully for one week. He accepted. I went up in the oil regions, and on my return I went out to see the result of Mr. Cameron's experiment, and I found the pump on the car ready to re-ship to New York. It proved a failure. Of course Mr. Pew or Mr. Hull may have a better thing, something new. I cannot say for that, but I want somebody else to have the pleasure of experimenting before I take any chances."

"Mr. Vandergrift, what do you think would be the result of placing pumps on wells that now show oil in considerable quantities?"

"Well, the pumps will naturally remove the pressure and I cannot see why the wells will not become flooded with oil when that pressure is removed, as oil will follow into the line uness prevented in some way, and perhaps ruin it."

Mr. Vandergrift, at the conclusion of his talk, recommended the Bee to see Mr. C. W. Bachelor, president of the Keystone bank. Mr. Bachelor is also president of the West Virginia Natural Gas company, and it was he who brought the first gas line into Pittsburg, 16 years ago.

Mr. Bachetor, in reply to a query, corroborated what Mr. Vandergrift had said in many respects.

"I would have doubts as to the success of pumps in a field such as you describe," he said. "Oil and water will follow the gas. Yes, I will be very glad to furnish you with the result of our experiments and investigations. I have had considerable experience in the gas business and would be loth to venture on such an experiment without a thorough investigation."

Upon returning to the hotel the committee had just adjourned, but all seemed desirous of living up to the obligations imposed by Mr. Pew. Mr. Tucker, who was secretary of the conference, volunteered a little information.

"Mr. Pew bound us to secrecy," he said, "and yet there is really nothing worth keeping secret. We plied him with question after question and he answered them all readily. We told him of the trouble we have with oil and water, and he said this could be easily overcome by separating one from the other before the gas passed into the field."

After dinner the committee visited the Philadelphia Gas company's office. Mr. Benny entertained the committee for an wards of an hour.

"Have you got any oil or water in the Murrayville field?" he was asked.

"A little water, but no oil."

"What do you do when you find water in large quantities?"

"Pull up the casing and let the well drown."

The committee after bidding good-by to Mr. Benny, divided, a part going to the Hull works to price pumps, etc., the other to pursue the inquiries further.

The full committee will spend to-morrow in the field looking at the pumps, and may not leave for home before Saturday night. M. P. MURPHY.

The bugle sounds at last;
Lights out. Good night.

The sky is white with stars;
The tent gleams white.
Tired captain from the wars,
Sleep through the night.

Sleep till the shadows take
Their endless flight;
Until the morning break.
Good night. Good night.

It is still true that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country. The New York World credits "the deft hands of Philadelphia cabinet-makers" with the production of "much of the stuff that masquerades as colonial furniture."

Spare time must be abundant in Mississippi. A man down there, according to the New York Press, has ascertained by counting that a bushel measure will hold 72,130 kernels of corn, 830,000 grains of wheat, 109,000 peas or 164,166 cotton seed.

There could be no diffusion of light without an atmosphere or some similar medium for the sun's rays to act upon.

A good deal of the dew which we see in the morning covering the leaves of grasses and other plants comes from the interior of the vegetables themselves. The extremely fine dew, as a rule, is atmospheric, but the larger drops which we find on the margins of leaves are, in general, exudations from the plant tissues.

The Roman sculptors Cenedli and Trabacchi have just finished the colossal statues of ex-Presidents Hidalgo and Juarez, of Mexico. The statues were ordered by the Mexican government, and will be cast in bronze as soon as possible. The statue of Hidalgo is about 17 feet high, while that of Juarez is about 14 feet.

In the Cathedral of Genoa is preserved, and has been for 600 years, a vase of immense value. It is cut from a single emerald. Its principal diameter is 12 1-2 inches and its height 5 3-4 inches. It is kept under several locks, the keys of which are in different hands, and it is rarely exhibited in public, and only by an order of the senate.

Those who only know morning-glories and moon-flowers as climbing species of convolvulus and ipomœa will be interested in knowing that one species grows as a tree in western Mexico, 20 or 30 feet high, and with a trunk three feet in circumference. The flower is about two inches long, and white, yellowish below. It was found by Dr. Palmer last year, very abundant about Alamos.

The German maneuvers of 1892 are expected to take place over the historic triangle of ground which lies between Metz, Thionville and Saarbruck. The Eighth and Sixteenth corps, quartered on the Rhine and Metz, are those designated for the interesting exercises, and it is said the emperor will take up his quarters at the Chateau d'Urvill, which he recently purchased, notwithstanding its name.

In Italy, France and Spain it is common to ring a hand-bell a short distance in advance of a funeral procession. The object of this custom is said to be to clear the way for the procession, to remind passengers and loiterers to take off their hats, and to call the pious to their doors and windows to gaze upon the emblems of mortality, and to say a prayer for the repose of the soul of the departed one.

It is said that the Japanese practice refined cruelty to delight their palates. They believe that the fish called the dai is the most delicious when eaten alive. An expert Japanese carver can dexterously remove five-sixths of the edible matter from its bones without touching a vital part. During this cruel operation the fish is kept alive by wet seaweed, which, being placed over its gills, enables it to breathe.

The sea yields many precious things—coral, amber and pearls—but it is not generally known that in certain parts of the Mediterranean, a species of mussel is found of which the shells contain one of the most beautiful textile materials known. These shells are about seven inches long and three inches broad, and each of them contains a piece of the fibre, weighing half a drachm, from which spun and woven goods are made.

Alfred Kingsley Clover, in the Magazine of American History, asks the question: "Was America discovered by the Chinese?" He remarks that since the year 1761, when the great French sinologue, De Guines, gave to the world for the first time the ancient account of the Chinese Hoei-Shin, describing a distant land to which the name of Fusang was given, the world has been flooded with books, tractates and pamphlets bearing on the same interesting topics, in which Fusang is identified as America."

In the resignation of Prof. Knapp, professor of the romance languages, says a New Haven letter, Yale suffers a severe blow. Prof. Knapp has the reputation of being the best instructor in these languages in the country, and the prize that the new Chicago University gains in him is a rich one. He has been very popular here as an instructor. President Dwight meets an additional difficulty in filling his place in view of the fact that it must be filled immediately. Prof. Knapp's resignation emphasizes the fact that Yale's professors are underpaid, and the alumni should see that Yale's endowment is enlarged so as to prevent this. Few men can resist the proffer of a place affording double the salary they are getting, and greater inroads in Yale's faculty may be expected unless a remedy is applied.

B'GOSH & SON.

The Toledo Press Club's Coming Entertainment.

The Cast of Characters and a Few Words About the Play Which is to be Presented Shortly.

The Press club entertainment which is to be given by local talent in about a month promises to be one of the most successful given by the club. The play to be presented as a comedy in three acts, by one of the members of the club, entitle B'Gosh & Son.

The first act is laid in a city newspaper office. The reporters have taken part in amateur theatrical entertainments until they are crazy to go on the stage. The editor is very religious, however, and will not allow anything that savors of the theater about him. Through the efforts of a busted theatrical manager, Percy Angelo McDingle, the reporters find an opening, and finally the religious editor is persuaded to go along to reform the stage, in which line he has some very novel ideas.

The second act finds the company stranded at Mushville on the Mush river. They find a farmer, Josh B'Gosh, who has histrionic aspirations. He runs the only hotel in the place, so the members of the company saddle themselves down upon him, and finally get him to join the combination. Toward the end of the act B'Gosh discovers the actor McDingle is his son, who years before ran away with a circus, so they start the new combination out under the name of B'Gosh & Son, who are both to appear at one and the same price. Numerous specialties are introduced. Following is the cast:

J. Jonathan Scribbles, city editor of the Daily Boomerang, very religious—J. R. W. Cooper.

Pete Pads, reporter on the Boomerang, somewhat given to acting—Robert Evans.

Cholly Bibbs, the dude reporter—Blacque Wilson.

Philip Pencil, the dead game sporting editor—C. G. Wilkinson.

Percy Angelo McDingle, old school actor, manager and general fakir—George W. Stevens.

Josh B'Gosh, general boss and postmaster of Mushville—Malcolm E. Russell.

Felix McCarthy, B'Gosh's right hand man—Chas. O'Brien.

Miss Stakes, a young lady reporter—Miss Maude Wood.

Kittie, B'Gosh's daughter—Miss Goldie Burbank.

In the third act McDingle, the newspaper people and B'Gosh and Felix are supposed to produce a burlesque entitled The Realm of Pokerdom, or the Princess and the Bob-Tailed Flush, at the town hall of Mushville, with the following cast:

Windy Whiskers, His Royal Nibs, Pasha of Buljorka—McDingle.

Tulu Gum Drops, chief rubber at the royal baths—Felix.

Creamy Tartar, who also thinks he is the Pasha—Pads.

Gutta Percha, second head boss under Creamy Tartar—B'Gosh.

Inez, daughter of the Pasha, unquestionable age—Miss Stakes.

Dr. Pill, the royal physician—Pencil.

Soldiers, slaves and the multitude by the remainder of the company.

The performance will be given at Wheeler's, and the date will be announced shortly. Besides those in the cast, a number of clever amateurs will appear in specialties, solos, quartets, dances, etc.

THE UNION OF UNIONS

Hold an Interesting Meeting at St. John's Church.

Several Matters Discussed and Acted Upon—Events Ahead—The Improvements at the Police Station.

The March meeting of the Union of Unions was held yesterday afternoon in St. John's M. E. church, in response to an invitation from Woodbridge W. C. T. U.

The meeting was opened by devotional exercises conducted by Rev. A. J. Fish, pastor of the church. Mrs. Eck, the president, then took the chair and called for the report of the secretary, Mrs. Alfie Hitchens.

The first item of business disposed of was the report of the committee to secure a lecturer on scientific temperance instruction for the coming county teachers' institute, which was given by the chairman, Mrs. J. W. Callard. Letters were read from Mrs. Frances Leiter, of Mansfield; Dr. Mary Allen, at present in California, and Miss Nellie Moore, of Defiance. The report was accepted and the committee continued.

Mrs. Dutton next gave the report of the committees on visiting the police matron and requesting an appropriation for needed improvements to the room of detention at the station and a padded cell for the use of women. The latter report embraced the interview with the police committee, and the action of the aldermen in fixing a sum of $125 for the alterations; also the action of powers unknown that in the meantime have erected partitions in an unsatisfactory manner. Although the improvements are seemingly completed, yet the padded cell is noticeably neglected. The subsequent action of the council was also briefly noted. The committee was instructed to continue its labors in the interest of humanity and decency.

Mrs. Clark, of First union, stated that a social purity conference would be held in the city the 22d and 23d, and all interested were invited to attend. The place of meeting will be announced later.

The subject of public drinking fountains for man and beasts was next discussed, and a committee composed of Mesdames L. F. Eck, S. Bartlett, Hawley and Priddy were appointed to look after the matter.

The county president, Mrs. Sumner, stated that $75 had already been raised in the county for the building fund of the woman's temple in Chicago, and asked the assistance of the several unions in raising the sum to $100.

Mrs. E. A. Edwards announced the next quarterly meeting of the narcotic committee, which will be held at the residence of Mrs. Keith, 2441 Summit avenue, March 9, at 2:30 p. m.

Several items of miscellaneous character were then disposed of, and Mrs. S. Bartlett, Miss Olive Brown and Mrs. Candee were appointed to prepare a plan of action for the summer season, and were instructed to report at the next meeting, which will be held with Leavitt union, April 7.

It was announced that Mrs. Frances J. Sumner and Mrs. Maud E. Dutton would attend the Monroe county convention in Monroe, the 16th and 17th, and the latter was delegated to carry greetings from the Union of Unions.

After singing the doxology the meeting adjourned.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Delightful Performance of Niobe Last Evening.

Paul Kauvar at Wheeler's To-Night—Elsie Leslie in Prince and Pauper—Gus Hill.

"Niobe," a very clever little comedy, by Harry and Edward Paulton, was presented at Wheeler's last evening by the Abbott & Teal company, and the performance proved a most delightful one. The story of the piece has been previously printed in the Bee, and it is sufficient to say that it deserved all the praise that has been bestowed upon it.

The company was one of exceptional excellence and their good work was attested by the continued applause of the audience, which was one of the most enthusiastic of the season.

Miss Isabelle Coe made a very beautiful statue of "Niobe," and when accidentally brought to life her acting in this difficult part was of a high order. She had a perfect conception of the part.

George R. Edeson, as Peter Amos Dunn and Charles Coote as Cornelius Griffin, are a splendid pair of high-class comedians, and created much merriment in the comical situations of the piece.

Other members of the company were all good and the costuming and staging of the piece was handsomely done.

Paul Kauvar.

Steele Mackay's masterpiece, Paul Kauvar, will be presented at Wheeler's to-night, to-morrow afternoon and to-morrow evening. The scene of the piece is laid in Paris; time, during the revolution of 1794. Paul Kauvar, painter, patron and president of the revolutionary section of France, finds himself struggling for right and justice between two great fires, the nobility of France on one side, and a howling mob of anarchists frantically calling for vengeance, on the other. The former grinding under the heel of oppression and leaving destitute all sons and daughters of France outside of their own circle, and the latter, "a curse to humanity and a drawback to any cause which they support, seeking to individually benefit themselves regardless of all sacrifice," find in Paul Kauvar a master worthy the name.

Paul's great love for his secretly married wife; his devotion to his country and his God; his noble self-sacrifice to save the life of the father of his wife, who believes him a Judas, and the cheerful manner in which he faces death rather than dishonor on two occasions, is the foundation of a drama which has won plaudits in every city of importance in the country. No better lesson of true patriotism can be taught than the one which "Paul Kauvar" carries with it.

Vaudeville Next Week.

The Pittsburg Leader speaks as follows of the performance given by Gus Hill's World of Novelties:

"Applause and laughter greeted the performance of Gus Hill's World of Novelties at the academy of music last night. There were no intermissions, no delays, and for two hours and a half, many clever innovations were introduced. The character sketches were very good, while the champion light and heavy club swinger of the world, Gus Hill, was simply wonderful in his performance with 30, 50, 75 and 115 pound clubs. The contortion work of Ames was, probably, the finest ever witnessed on the academy stage. The play proved a decided hit and those who missed it have reasons for regret."

Prince and Pauper.

The first appearance here of Elsie Leslie and the entire New York cast in the production of Mark Twain's Prince and Pauper, should cause great interest among the patrons of Wheeler's. Elsie Leslie is undoubtedly the most gifted of all the young actresses and the play is one calling for unusually strong dramatic work. Its characters stand out vividly like figures in a painting and its scenes have a strong realism. Tenderness, pathos and most exquisite humor permeate it. The story is beautifully told by its gifted author, and is well preserved in the dramatization. This is the first of Mark Twain's stories which has been successful in dramatization, both in financial and literary senses.

AFTER THE GRIPPE.

The Grippe Responsible for More Deaths after Recovery than During its Course—How to Avoid the Danger.

Grippe, in itself, is bad enough, debilitating enough, but it is the after effects, the slowness of recovery that give it its great danger. In most cases, the person did not have sufficient vitality to rally after the disease itself had passed. The forces of nature were too weak to contend with the debility which the Grippe had left.

It is sad to think how many people have died who might have been saved if nature had been properly assisted and fortified after the Grippe had been driven from the system. Many physicians realized this fact and assisted their patients over the dangerous after effects by bracing up and stimulating their systems. This was, and can be done in but one way, and that is by the steady and moderate use of some pure yet powerful stimulant. There is but one absolutely pure and medicinal stimulant known to the profession and to the public, and that is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. The most prominent scientists and physicians of the land endorse its purity and value. It is not a new whiskey, it has been before the public for years. It is not a cheap decoction, but a pure distillation. It imparts a tone to the system possible in no other manner and sends the blood coursing through the veins with renewed vigor. It is superior in every respect and however much any unscrupulous druggist or grocer may seek to lead you to believe to the contrary do not be deceived.

City Auditor's Office.

Toledo, O., Feb. 18th, 1892.

The committee on ways and means of the common council of the City of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned, invite sealed proposals at this office to

at 7 o'clock p. m. for the purchase of Street Improvement Bonds to the amount of Thirteen Thousand Seven Hundred and Seventy-four and 68-100 ($13,774 68-100) Dollars, bearing date Feb. 8, 1892, and payable as follows: Eleven Hundred and Seventy-four and 68-100 (1,174 68-100) Dollars on Feb. 8, 1893, and Fourteen Hundred Dollars at the expiration of every six months thereafter, to and including Aug. 8, 1897, at the office of the city treasurer, with interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually at the same place as evidenced by coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said Improvement Bonds are issued pursuant to Section 2704 to 2707 of the Revised Statutes of the State of Ohio, and also under an ordinance of the common council of the City of Toledo, Ohio, "To provide for the issue of improvement bonds to pay the cost and expense of the improvement of Stickney avenue, from Sherman street to City Line."—Passed Jan. 25th, 1892.

The denomination of these bonds will be first payment of $587 40-100, and thereafter two of $700 each payment.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest, to the highest bidder.

Bidders will be required to state the gross amount they will pay for the bonds besides the accrued interest to date of delivery at Toledo, Ohio. They will also be required to deposit with each bid an amount of money or a certified check on some responsible bank equal to at least five (5) per centum of the par value of the bonds, so bid for, as a guarantee of good faith, and that the bid so made (if successful) will be fulfilled in accordance with the terms thereof, and the requirements of the law and ordinances. When the bids have been examined and the award made according to law, all monies or checks deposited as guarantees shall be returned to the depositor, or held by the city auditor subject to his call, except that of the successful bidder, which shall be held and considered, and accepted as part payment of the bonds so awarded or sold, but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement, or refusal to accept and pay for the bonds so sold, then and in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the city of Toledo, and shall become the property of said city, in compensation for loss and expenses attending the sale of said bonds and as liquidated damages for repudiation of bid. And no bid will be received if not accompanied by money or check aforesaid.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Proposals should be addressed to the Auditor of the city of Toledo, Ohio, and be indorsed "Proposals for improvement bonds."

Children's Hour

NEAR AND FAR.

At the Little-End-of-Nowhere lived a single little man;
He had nobody for company but a little black-and-tan;
There was not much to do there, as perhaps you will suppose,
For as he had no neighbors, he had neither friends or foes.

And so he fell to wondering, and wondered night and day;
"I wonder why the people live so very far away!
They must find it inconvenient, I should think—extremely so!
For when they come here, they will have so very far to go!"

At last he took a high resolve; he said: "I'll go and see
Why those misguided people live so far away from me!
Perhaps it is their ignorance, and I can set them straight
Before they grow so very old that it will be too late!"

So he walked and walked and walked and walked until he found a city,
And to the people he expressed his wonderment and pity.
He was completely thunderstruck when some one chanced to say,
"'Tis you, my worthy little friend, who lives so far away!"

He went home pondering deeply; he said, "It cannot be!
That person is insane—'t is they that live so far from me!
But I'll be patient with them, and perhaps they'll learn, some day,
That such a distance from my home must needs be far away!"

—Margaret Vandegrift in March St. Nicholas.

THE RED FAN.

They had been sitting around the library fire for some time reading when suddenly Jack threw down his book and said: "I vote this pretty dull. Confound 'Rasselas' anyhow. Let's talk."

"That will be a pleasure. You're so entertaining," said Jetty crossly, for she was reading one of the Duchess' novels on the sly and didn't want to be interrupted.

"Humph! I know what you're doing, miss; so you needn't try to hide that book. You can't deceive me. If you were reading something solid now, you'd be only too glad to lay it down. Hi, there, Rachel! what are you reading?"

Rachel laid down her book reluctantly. "Macaulay's 'Lays,' Jack, but I will stop if you like. What shall we do to be entertaining?"

"Oh, I don't know! I said 'talk,' but I don't know what to talk about."

"I'll tell you," said Rachel: "let's go up to grandma's room and get her to tell us a story."

"Oh, pshaw!" exclaimed Jack, "she doesn't want us up there bothering her."

"You just come and see. You don't go to see her half enough, you and Jetty. She told me she wished you'd come oftener."

"Did she, honest now?" asked Jack, who was very fond of his grandmother, but, like all boys, thought it foolish to show his affection. "Well, suppose we do go," and he gave Jetty's book a rap that sent it flying across the room.

Jetty rose without saying anything, picked the book up and hid it under the lid of the piano. It was useless to remonstrate with Jack when he had on one of his "high and mighty spells," as she called them, and, beside, Jetty knew she had no right to read that book. She would not have dared to if her mother and father had not gone out for the evening. So she placed it safely out of sight and followed her brother and cousin to grandma's room.

They were already ensconced in comfortable chairs, while grandma, who was in quite a glow at this unexpected visit from the grandchildren she loved so dearly, was beaming at them over her spectacles.

"Tell you a story," she said; "dear, dear, I don't believe I can. I haven't told stories for years. Until you came here, little Rachel, Jack and Jetty never cared for my old fashioned tales."

"Oh, grandma!" exclaimed Jetty reproachfully, and then to change the conversation she quickly said: "What do you use that lovely cherry cabinet with the brass mountings for? That's pretty enough for the drawing room."

"The very thing," said grandma, in an excited flutter. "It is filled with souvenirs of my girlhood days. Every article has a history. Suppose you chose something from it, and I will tell you a story about it."

"Agreed," cried Rachel, "and we'll come up here every night until the cabinet is empetied. You choose first, Jetty."

Jetty opened the cabinet drawer and finally drew out a beautiful red tissue fan, with exquisitely carved tortoise shell sticks and a border of red feathers.

"I choose this, grandma," she said. "Has it a history? Did you carry at at your first ball?"

"Well, not exactly, dear, and yet it has something to do with my first ball. It has a history. You see it was this way. When I was 18 I went away for a visit to New York. I had just finished school and I had never been in a big city before. It was a great treat, and how good they were to me, dear Madame Van Rensselaer and her delightful husband.

"They had no children, but toward the end of my visit a niece of theirs, Marie Van Rensselaer, came to stay with them. Marie's mother was a French woman whom one of the Van Rensselaer boys had met and married abroad, and Marie inherited all her mother's love of fine clothes, dainty belongings and exquisite lingerie. After Marie came I did not enjoy my visit quite so well. She was fond of me and she did not mean to be unkind, but I could not help wincing a bit when she rolled her big black eyes at my clothes in evident surprise at their simplicity. My clothes were of good material and appropriate, but they did not have the Frenchy style of Marie's Paris-made gowns. Ah, how foolish I was, but I cried many a night over that little thorn in my rose.

Well, the week before I went away madame gave a ball in our honor. It was a very grand affair, I assure you. All the young people we knew came, and all the grown up people who had known our parents came to welcome their daughters into society, for it was really at this ball that Marie and I made our debut. The house was all trimmed with palms and ferns and exquisite flowers, and Marie and I stood with madame at the end of the long drawing room to receive the guests. But I am getting ahead of my story. A few days before the ball Marie came to my room to see what I was going to wear. She brought her gown with her, a pale blue silk covered with sprays of tiny forget-me-nots done in a darker shade of blue.

"I had a little surprise in store for her and so, after a while, I went carelessly to my trunk and brought out my gown. It was a very pretty gown and I was delighted to hear Marie's exclamation of admiration and surprise.

"It was a white chiffon gown, with a full skirt and tiny bodice, low-necked, with a full ruffle of the chiffon hanging down, and no sleeves. There were white slippers to match and long white gloves.

"'Oh, Cherie, you will look like an angel,' cried the impetuous Marie, as she whirled me around for inspection. 'Jacques, the gardener, shall make one little white wreath for your bonny brown locks! Ah! Thou wilt look like a white-robed angel with a crown, my Katherine, but,' and she paused impressively, 'where is your fan?'

"I produced it reluctantly. It was an old satin fan of my mother's and I felt rather ashamed of it, but it was all I had. I was sorry Marie asked, because I had not intended showing it to her. Indeed, I was contemplating the possibility of going without a fan at the ball. I didn't think I would be very warm.

"When Marie saw the fan she threw up both her hands in horror.

"'It will nevare do, ma cherie,' she said, 'nevare, nevare. It will spoil thy angel costume. Go straight down to Martin's and buy there the exquisite tissue fan we saw there yesterday. Do you remember?'

"Did I remember? Well, didn't I? I had coveted that fan for the last week, but it was $18, and I had not so much to spend for myself. I had only two crisp ten dollar bills tucked away in my little chain purse, and those were to buy gifts for the folks at home. But it was such a temptation. Marie returned to the siege next day.

"'It is folly,' she said, 'come down with me and see it.'

"Well, I went. Of course Marie did not know about the two ten dollar bills and the gifts for the people at home. There it lay in the case, so white and dainty with the exquisitely carved mother o' pearl sticks; its border of lace and the dainty spray of roses across it. I bought it, but my heart was very heavy. A thousand times I wished it back. I thought of the skates for brother Tom, the book for sister May and the dainty shoulder shawl for mother. None of them within my reach now.

"The day before the ball I went into Martin's to get a bracelet fixed. The clasp was broken. I paused at the fan counter to look into the case. There was a lady standing there talking to the clerk.

"'I had set my heart on that fan,' she said. 'I should have taken it the day I saw it. I wanted it for my daughter. You know the one I mean, white tissue with mother of pearl sticks, lace bordered and painted with roses.'

"Yes, I remember, Mrs. Mason," said the clerk, "I sold it only the other day to a young girl."

"I am sorry," she said. "I wish I knew the girl. I'd be willing to pay her more than she gave."

My heart seemed to leap up and choke me, but I turned around and said as bravely as I could: "I beg your pardon, but I accidentally overheard what you said. I bought that fan and I don't want it. I have never carried it. If you'll buy it from me, I'll be very glad to sell it to you. I don't want more for it. I shall be very glad to have what I gave for it."

"Why child," she said curiously, "why do you want to part with it?"

Then I told her all about it. Well, to make a long story short, she took it. I stood at madame's right that night in white and Marie stood at her left in blue, and in the center was madame, stately and imposing in a rich brocade. I carried no fan, and Marie's eyes were as big as saucers when she saw nothing in my hands. But she did not dare speak about it before madame. Can you fancy my surprised, however, when about 10 o'clock madame said: "Katherine, let me present you to an old friend of your mother's, Mrs. Mason. Anna, my dear, this is Teresa's daughter."

And then I heard a familiar voice say, "I think this young lady and I have met before. Let me introduce my daughter Millie to her; and, looking up, I saw my acquaintance of Martin's and beside her a young girl in pink, holding in her hand a white tissue fan—my fan.

I was very much embarrassed. Marie was curious and madame bewildered, but Mrs. Mason nodded reassuringly to me and before any one could ask a question, moved on with Millie. She told madame the whole story, however, and next day I found this red fan on my dressing table with a sweet note from madame, praising me for what I had done. And that is why I have always kept the red fan so preciously.—New York Recorder.

BEE HIVE.

Greeting.

Dear Young Readers—We have some nice letters this week. I like to print them for you very much, but I want to give you just a word of advice. In order to help the editor, who is always a very busy man, you must never write on both sides of the paper. Write each page on a separate sheet so that the leaf can be slipped off and need not be turned over. The typesetter cannot turn the sheets over when he is setting the type, so, if you write on both sides of the paper the editor must copy your whole letter before he can send it to the printer.

I am sure that you will enjoy reading the letters that are given as much as I have. Your friend,

PETER BUZZER.

A Funny Accident.

Dear Buzzer—I thought I would give an account of an accident which occurred one day while I was driving my dog. My dog will drive as good as any horse. I have a harness for him.

One day I was driving down the road, and all at once Frank started to run. I was getting close to Mrs. Omand's house, and when I got to the house the door was open and the table was set. The dog turned short and started for the door and ran in and under the table. They had company for dinner and I felt like killing Frank.

Yours respectfully,

RALPH DUNLAP.

Six Points, O. (12 years old.)

A Happy Little Girl.

Dear Mr. Buzzer—I thought I would write a little letter. I am a girl 8 years old. I am staying with my grandpa, five miles from Bowling Green.

My grandpa has a nice farm and everything nice.

I have a loving dog and cat and a little doll. It is very muddy now, but when it gets nicer I can carry in wood for grandpa.

I am not going to school now, but will go in about seven weeks.

My grandpa has a nice organ, and I am trying to learn to play and sing. Our neighbor has some nice little girls.

My grandpa had a sawing machine here last Saturday, and the sawer told grandpa that he should keep girls on hand. Grandpa told him that he had one already that would stay with him. Well, I like to be with grandpa.

Grandpa takes the Bee, and I like to read the stories in it.

If you will print my letter, Mr. Buzzer, I will write again.

Your little friend,

MAGGIE B.

Sugar Ridge, Ohio.

A Raidroad Boy.

I am a boy 12 years old. My mother, my twin brother Ralph, and I had a very pleasant trip out Bellevue, Ohio, in the first part of December. While there, we made the acquaintance of a locomotive engineer on the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad. We rode in the engine while he was "drilling" (or switching) cars at Bellevue. One Saturday morning he invited us to go to Toledo in the engine.

We started about half past nine, or as the railroad men say, 9:30 a. m., and reached there about 1:38 p. m. Then we went to the round-house, and had the fire cleaned—that is, two men came and dumped the ashes, leaving just enough coals to start a new fire. Then we watched the engineer while he blew the cinders that had collected in the smoke-stack out with steam; it was an interesting thing to see. Then we went to get "orders" and some lunch. The orders were to take a train of six empty cars to Norwalk, a place east of Bellevue. We were going to run a "special," and the fireman put out the green lamps.

We left Toledo at 3:40 p. m., and rode 35 miles at the rate of 40 miles an hour. It was very exciting. Then we saw a danger signal, and we stopped. A brakeman came back with a lantern, and said that a freight train had been "drilling" cars, and had completely smashed the end of an oil-car. We were obliged to wait there half an hour. The engineer let each of us take a turn at running the engine. I ran it all by myself for six miles. Then we were delayed for an hour on a siding, waiting for a passenger and two freight trains to pass.

We reached home at half past ten. We were very tired, hungry, and sooty, but I think that riding on an engine is more fun than almost anything else.

A Little Girl Friend.

Dear Mr. Buzzer—I am a little girl 9 years old. I go to school. I have over a mile to go. I study reading, geography and spelling and arithmetic. I have a little brother 7 years old and a little sister 2 years old. My papa takes the Bee, and I like to read the Children's Hour. This is the first letter I ever wrote to a paper.

City Auditor's Office.

Toledo, O., Feb. 18th, 1892.

The committee on ways and means of the common council of the city of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned, invite sealed proposals at this office to

MONDAY, MARCH 21ST, 1892,

at 7 o'clock p. m. for the purchase of Street Improvement Bonds, to the amount of Two Thousand Five Hundred ($2,5000 Dollars, bearing date March 14, 1892, and payable as follows: Two Hundred and Fifty ($250) Dollars on March 14, 1893, and Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars at the expiration of every six months thereafter to and including Sept. 14, 1897, at the office of the city treasurer, with interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually at the place as evidenced by coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said improvement bonds are issued pursuant to Section 2704 to 2707 of the revised statutes of the state of Ohio, and also under an ordinance of the common council of the city of Toledo, Ohio, "To provide for the issue of improvement bonds to pay the cost and expense of the improvement of Wayne street, from Western avenue to Western City Line."—Passed Feb. 1st, 1892.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest, to the highest bidder.

Bidders will be required to state the gross amount they will pay for the bonds besides the accrued interest to date of delivery at Toledo, Ohio. They will also be required to deposit with each bid an amount of money or a certified check on some responsible bank equal to at least five (5) per centum of the par value of the bonds, so bid for, as a guarantee of good faith, and that the bid so made (if successful) will be fulfilled in accordance with the terms thereof, and the requirements of the law and ordinances. When the bids have been examined, and the award made according to law, all monies or checks deposited as guarantees shall be returned to the depositor, or held by the city auditor subject to his call, except that of the successful bidder, which shall be held and considered, and accepted as part payment of the bonds so awarded or sold, but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement, or refusal to accept and pay for the bonds so sold, then and in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the city of Toledo, and shall become the property of said city, in compensation for loss and expenses attending the sale of said bonds and as liquidated damages for repudiation of bid. And no bid will be received if not accompanied by money or check aforesaid.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Proposals should be addressed to the "Auditor of the city of Toledo, Ohio," and be indorsed "Proposals for improvement bonds."

W. P. WALKER, City Auditor.

FRANCE AND OTTMAN, of New York, the well known and successful Specialists in Chronic Diseases and Diseases of the Eye and Ear, on account of their large practice in Ohio, have established the FRANCE MEDICAL INSTITUTE, where all forms of Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases will be successfully treated on the most Scientific principles. They are ably assisted by a full corps of eminent Physicians and Surgeons, each one being a well known specialist in his profession

CANCER positively cured without pain or use of the knife, by a new method.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.—DR. FRANCE, after years of experience, has discovered the greatest cure known, for all diseases peculiar to the sex. Female diseases positively cured by the new remedy, OLIVE BLOSSOM. The cure is effected by home treatment. Entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation Free and Strictly Confidential. Correspondence promptly answered.

YOUNG MEN—Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with confidence.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, after years of experience, have discovered the greatest cure known for weakness in the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, timidity, trembling, dimness of sight, or giddiness, diseases of the head, throat, nose, or skin, affections of the liver, lungs, stomach, or bowels—those terrible disorders arising from the solitary vice of youth—and secret practices, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible. Take one candid thought before it is too late. A week or month may place your case beyond the reach of hope. Our method of treatment will speedily and permanently cure the most obstinate case, and absolutely restore perfect manhood.

TO MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—There are many from the age of 30 to 60 who are troubled with frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight burning or smarting sensation, weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will be found, or the color will be a thin or milkish hue. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is a second stage of seminal weakness. We will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—We have a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases and we get few which have not baffled the skill of all the home physicians) have the benefit of a full council of skilled specialists. In treatment of diseases peculiar to females, success has been marked, over two-thirds of all cases coming ladies, old, young, married, single, come on. Our method is entirely free from objectionable features of the general practitioner, namely, "Local treatment." We seldom find it necessary. We prepare remedies, constitutional and local, as the case demands, and instruct ladies how to treat themselves.

MARRIAGE.—Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualification, speedily restored.

PRIVATE DISEASES.—Blood Poison, Venereal Taint, Gleet, Stricture, Seminal Emissions, Loss of Sexual Power, Weakness of Sexual Organs, Want of Desire in Male or Female, whether from imprudent habits of youth or sexual habits of mature years, or any cause that debilitates the sexual functions, speedily and permanently cured. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Absolute cures guaranteed. Medicines sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

EPILEPSY, OR FITS—Positively cured by a new and never-failing method. Testimonials furnished.

FREE EXAMINATION OF THE URINE.—Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring from 2 to 4 ounces of urine (that passed first in the morning preferred), which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination, and if requested a written analysis will be given.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately. Delays are dangerous.

WONDERFUL CURES Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail or express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed. No risks incurred.

Cases and correspondence confidential. Treatment sent C. O. D. to any part of U. S. List of 130 questions free. Address, with postage, DR. FRANCE, Nos. 38 and 40 W. Gay St., Columbus, O.

Scottwood Avenue.

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned, up to 12 o'clock at noon of Monday,

THE 28TH DAY OF MARCH, 1892,

for improving Scottwood avenue from the paving in Bancroft street to the south gutter line of Virginia street by paving the central thirty (30) feet thereof with either cedar blocks, Vitrified brick or Trinidad asphalt laid on a foundation of hydraulic cement concrete, together with the necessary grading, curbing, crosswalks, drainage, etc.

The contractor or contractors who shall do the work herein provided for shall be paid in cash within ninety days after the completion of the work and the acceptance thereof by the city.

All bids must be written with ink and the price of each item shall be written out in full as well as in figures. Each bid must contain the full name of every person interested in the same. All parties filing bids for the matters specified in this notice, must deposit with the city clerk on each bid the sum of two hundred dollars. All deposits to be in cash or certified check on a bank doing a regular banking business in the city of Toledo, and accompanied by an agreement signed by the bidder and two disinterested persons, guaranteeing that, if the bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into—otherwise the amount deposited to be forfeited to the city; and in case a contract is entered into, said deposit to remain until the first estimate of work done, (or double the amount of deposit,) is reported to the common council.

Bidders will be required to indorse their names on the outside of the envelope containing their proposal, and what the bid is for, the same to be filed with the city clerk. Bids not filed in accordance with the above requirements will be rejected.

Blank bids and envelopes can be obtained of the undersigned or of the city civil engineer.

Bidders must specify the time within which they will commence and complete the work after the acceptance of their bid.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the city civil engineer.

The council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the council,

C. H. DURIAN, City Clerk.

Armory Bond Bill Passes the House.

More Measures Turned Into the Hopper.

Miscellaneous Matter of General Interest Gathered by Bee Correspondents at the State Capitol.

Columbus, March 4.—(Special)—The house yesterday afternoon passed Griffin's bill authorizing the commissioners of Lucas county to issue additional bonds in a sum not exceeding $13,000, to complete the armory building.

The bonds are to be issued in the same manner as the first and original issue, in fact all conditions of the original act providing for the issuance of bonds are to cover the additional issue.

Passed the Senate.

The following bills passed the senate yesterday afternoon:

Mr. Wagner—Requiring township clerks to make a detailed statement of receipts and disbursements of township funds, and post the same at election precincts on election day.

Mr. Winn—Empowering councils of cities of the second class to have streets marked.

Mr. Myers—To authorize the commissioners of Henry county to extend a pike in Harrison township.

Mr. Shaw—Authorizing Adelphus special school district in Allen and Putnam counties to issue $5,000 in bonds to complete school house.

Introduced in the Senate.

Mr. Carpenter, Fayette—Making the statute of limitation apply to married women.

Mr. Gear—Requiring county treasurers to give 10 days' notice before the penalty of 5 per cent. on delinquent taxes shall be enforced.

Bills Passed the House.

Mr. Marshall—Amending section 3234 so that insurance companies organized present to the present constitution may make report to the state department without invalidating their charter.

Mr. Heinlein—Providing that when a township containing a municipal corporation and the voting places are common, separate ballot boxes shall be used.

Contested Elections.

The senate has passed a bill to give the circuit court exclusive and original jurisdiction in the case of a contested common pleas election. The democrats hold two of the circuits in the state and the intent of the bill is plain.

Bills Passed the House.

Mr. McClure—Authorizing Marice City special school district, Putnam county, to issue $3,000 in bonds for school purposes.

Mr. Flummerfelt—Authorizing the commissioners of Seneca county to issue $15,000 in bonds to build a bridge across the Sandusky river.

Political Bills.

Senator Hildebrand has introduced a bill legislating out of office the non-partisan state board of pardons. It provides that the governor appoint all republicans at a salary of $10 per day and not to exceed 70 days in any one year.

In addition to this a measure by Mr. Carpenter, of Meigs, creates a number of new officials for the penitentiary for which the aggregate salaries will amount to nearly $10,000. It is estimated that nearly one thousand applications are on file for positions under the new administration.

Both branches have adjourned until Monday afternoon.

Bills Introduced in the House.

Mr. Brittain—Extending the provisions of the Lake-Geauga county special road laws to the state by dividing all townships into road districts and giving power to trustees to levy taxes.

Mr. Haskell—Creating police justices in villages to have concurrent jurisdiction with the mayor in the hearing of cases of violation of ordinances.

Mr. Olmstead—To allow the grading and improving of the surface of any lot to conform with the established grade of the street it abuts without liability to the owner.

Mr. Holcomb—Permitting the incorporation of companies to control terminal facilities of railroads in the cities of Ohio.

Mr. Martin—Requiring county commissioners to publish in the annual reports the receipts and expenditures and the condition of the various funds.

Mr. Gaumer—Repealing the Cole law relative to the change of the name of the intermediate penitentiary at Mansfield.

Mr. Weybrecht—Amending the Australian ballot law by providing circles in which to place the cross marks on the ballot at the head of the ticket in which an elector may mark for a straight ticket.

Mr. James—To allow attornies of other states to be admitted to the bar of Ohio without examination, provided they have practiced before the supreme court of the state in which they reside.

Mr. Boxwell—Permitting an appeal from the assignment of road supervisors to township trustees.

Mr. Boxwell—So that trustees and treasurers of originally surveyed townships shall be elected for three years.

Mr. Walsh—Making the liabilities of insurance companies doing business in this state not to exceed four-fifths of the cash value of the building insured.

The Standard Case.

The decision in the Standard Oil case runs as follows:

2294. Ohio ex rel. Att'y-Gen. v the Standard Oil company. In quo warranto. Minshall, J.

1. That a corporation is a legal entity, apart from the natural persons who compose it, in a mere fiction, introduced for its conveniences in the transaction of its business, and of those who do business with it; but like every other fiction of the law, when urged to an extent and purpose not within its reason and policy, may be disregarded.

2. Where all or a majority of the stockholders composing a corporation, do an act which is designed to affect the property and business of the company, and which, through the control their numbers give them over the selection and conduct of the corporate agencies, does affect the property and business of the company, in the same manner as if it had been a formal resolution of its board of directors; and if the act so done is ultra vires of the corporation and against public policy, and was done in their individual capacities for the purpose of concealing their real purpose and object, the act should be regarded as an act of the corporation; and, to prevent the abuse of corporate power, may be challenged as such by the state in a proceeding in quo warranto.

3. An agreement by which all, or a majority of the stockholders of a corporation, transfer their stocks to certain trustees, in consideration of the agreement of the stockholders of other companies and of the members of limited partnership, engaged in the same business, to do likewise; and by which all are to receive in lieu of their stocks and interests so transferred, trust certificates to be issued by the trustees, equal at par to the par value of their stocks and interests; and by which the trustees are empowered as apparent owners of the stock to elect directors of the several companies, and thereby control their affairs in the interests of the trust so created; and are to receive all dividends made by the several companies, and limited partnerships, from which, as a common fund, dividends are to be made by the trustees to the holders of the trust certificates, tends to the creation of a monopoly, to control production as well as prices, and is against public policy.

4. A proceeding in quo warranto to forfeit the charter of a corporation must under 6789, revised statutes, be commenced in five years after the act complained of was done, whether commenced by the state on relation of the attorney general, or otherwise. But a corporation may be ousted by such proceedings from the exercise of a power or franchise, not conferred by law, where the same has not been exercised for a term of 20 years.

Judgment of ouster from the right to make the agreements set forth in the petition, and of the power to perform the same.

Notes.

Senator McMaken introduced a bill yesterday afternoon to require all railroad companies to provide stretchers and medicine cases on trains.

Mr. Workman's bill to rip up the present democratic city government of Kenton was reconsidered yesterday afternoon and made the special order for Wednesday next at 11 o'clock.

The house yesterday afternoon, after a discussion of only three hours, passed the general appropriation bill. It appropriates in round numbers $3,000,000. It was read the first time in the senate this morning.

The members of the state board of pardons presented Chief Clerk John R. Malloy, of the house of representatives, with a splendid gold watch and chain, as an appreciation of his services while a member of the board. Mr. Malloy well deserves such a token of respect as he was always obliging to the newspaper men while on the board and is an able assistant to them in his present position. It is the wish of the Bee that he may live as long as the watch will keep time.

TWO NEWLY BORN BABES

Said to Have Been Buried in a Yard

On Summit Street—The Police Are at Work Investigating and Arrests Will Follow.

The disposal of a pair of newly born twin children is the subject of an investigation by the police department, and a most sensational case has been developed. Several nights ago a woman appeared at the police station with a strange story, and if all the facts prove true, some of the parties concerned will have trouble in clearing themselves.

She stated that about two weeks ago a Mrs. Hammel, a grass widow, living in the flat at 930 Summit street, gave birth to twin children, and this fact was known to six or eight people living in the flat, who saw the children alive during the next three days.

On the fourth day, however, this woman saw Mrs. Hammel bury the babes in the back yard. How they came to their death she did not know.

The matter was such a serious one that the woman feared to say anything about it, but finally she reported it to the police. Two detectives were put on the case, and they at once went to the house named. On inquiry they found several people who had seen the babes alive and heard them cry. They next went into the back yard, and here they found the ground dug up, but the bodies were gone and could not be found.

Further investigations showed that the woman had been attended by a physician, and now he will be obliged to answer for his connection with the case.

None of the parties have yet been arrested, but they will be, and the prosecution will be pushed to the fullest extent.

Mrs. Hammel was divorced from her husband some time ago and he now has a case pending before the probate court in which he asks that a guardian be appointed for two other children of theirs. He is not the father of the two babes that Mrs. Hammel is alleged to have disposed of.

An Eighteen-Year-Old Burglar Pleads Guilty—Remarkable Case of Faith Cure.

Norwalk, O., March 4.—(Special)—Earl Somers, the W. & L. E. engineer who was injured at Mt. Pleasant Tuesday by a landslide toppling his engine over and burying him in the debris, is in quite a critical condition.

His right foot was badly smashed and his back hurt, and it is feared he has sustained serious internal injuries. He lay unconscious yesterday.

John Culley, the young man who robbed Kellogg & Son's grocery store, plead guilty in court and the judge sentenced him to one year in the penitentiary. As he only 18, an effort will be made to send him to the reform school.

A remarkable case of faith or prayer cure is reported in this city. Mrs. August Stimmler, a poor German woman, whose husband is a crippled soldier, and who has been an inmate of the Dayton and Sandusky home, has been an invalid for several years, and much of the time confined to her bed.

She has only been able to get about with the aid of crutches. She had a strong faith that the Lord could cure her and make her walk. She is an ardent Catholic.

Wednesday she managed by some way to reach her church, St. Paul's German. Here she poured out her soul longings. When she arose from her devotions a new life and strength came to her. She felt that the Lord had heard her prayers and throwing aside her crutches she got upon her feet and walked about as other people. She claims to have been cured and permanently restored. It is a most singular case, to say the least.

Mayor Crawford has become aware that obscene and lascivious pictures and immoral books have been offered for sale in our city and yesterday he issued a proclamation that such immoral and unlawful practice must cease, or the full extent of the law would be meted out to the offenders. THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

Some Facts That the People of Ohio Ought to Know.

The State Should Have a Great University, but a Division of the Funds Will Not Secure Such Results—What Other States Are Doing.

Special Correspondence Toledo Bee.

Columbus, O., March 4.—In a recent issue of the Bee appears a communication from Columbus giving the substance of an "interview" with Senator Nichols in regard to the attempt to deprive the State university in part of the income accruing from the Hysell tax. The position occupied by Mr. Nichols is one which reflects no credit on his intelligence or patriotism, and will probably be the occasion of regret and shame to him when more years shall have given him more wisdom. At present, however, it is the statements put forward by him in support of his position that claim immediate attention and answer:

To prove his surprising charge that the State university is "conducted in a highly expensive manner" he sums up the entire amount of annual fees that a student could (by taking everything) be assessed, and finds it to amount to $69. This includes the incidental and laboratory fees. He then claims that Yale and Harvard (and in his speech before the committee he adds Amherst) charge only $75 or $80. Unfortunately for his facts, the well-known truth is that Harvard charges $150 a year for tuition alone, exclusive of any laboratory fees, and Amherst $110 for tuition and one or two petty privileges. See (which Mr. Nichols apparently did not) the catalogues of these institutions for the last two years. But these are not state colleges. In the University of Michigan the matriculation fee (there is none at the O. S. U.) is $10 for Michigan students and $25 for those from outside the state; the annual fee for tuition to Michigan students is $20; to outsiders $30. The same fee at O. S. U. is $15. The diploma tax at Michigan is $10; at Ohio State, $5.

Mr. Nichols knows well enough (for he admits that he was a student there for two years) that the State university has emphatically been a "poor boys' college;" that it has done precisely what it and other institutions of its class were organized to do—namely, to afford a "liberal and practical education for the industrial classes" of Ohio. Let it be remembered that in the 20 years of its life the university has received from the state a little over $350,000 all told; that of the annual income of $150,000 (to take Mr. Nichols' figures) only $84,000 is provided by the Hysell fund, the rest being due to the beneficence of the national government and the fees of the 650 students who are willing to come and pay a nominal sum annually; that Franklin county contributed, to secure the location of the university within its limits, the sum of $300,000, increased by private subscriptions to $328,000. This purchased a magnificent domain, worth now to the state (its sole owner) at least $1,200,000.

Mr. Nichols girds in puerile fashion at Columbus for sending in large numbers of its sons and daughters to the institution which the wise generosity of Franklin county secured by outbidding sister counties 20 years ago. Would not a similar result have taken place, a reasonable man might ask, had the state located her university in Hamilton county, or Clarke, or Butler, or Licking? Of the 2,420 students at Michigan no less than 263 are registered as residents of Ann Arbor, a small town of about 9,000 inhabitants.

Columbus has over 100,000 people; is it surprising that 238 of her youth (citizens of Ohio, be it remembered) are using the educational facilities which lie at their doors?

But Mr. Nichols' "arguments" topple hopelessly against each other. In the very next paragraph, after stigmatizing the State university as a "Columbus school" (he might with equal propriety have added the deaf and dumb and blind institutions), he adds as "an important thing" that "students are received from all parts of the country."

There is no limitation to residents or citizens of Ohio. I notice in the catalogue of 1891 that students are enrolled from the Sandwich Islands, New York, Missouri, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kansas and Indiana. Why should we extend the benefit of our institutions to citizens of other states?"

If this surprising and provincial utterance needed any answer in reason, it might be worth while to point again to the University of Michigan, one of whose crowning glories is the reputation which crowds her halls with students from all over the world, who are glad to come and pay $25 annual fees and $25 matriculation fees. Out of her 2,420 students, 1,258—a clear majority—are from other states and countries; and of these, 205 are from Ohio, who are paying for and enjoying the "benefit of the institutions" of a sister state, a fact which should bring joy to the economical soul of Mr. Nichols.

As a matter of cold fact the cosmopolitan list cited by Mr. Nichols includes just 35 students out of the 660 at the State university. It is to be hoped that there will be more of them, and that the hundreds who now annually leave the state to spend their thousands of dollars at other colleges will have no reason to do so in the future; for Ohio can have, if she will, a university which will offer anything which may be desired by the youth of Ohio, and the noble idea of Mr. Cornell will be again fulfilled.

Mr. Nichols indulges in one personal remark, which is certainly unworthy of a senator of Ohio and a former student of the university. Speaking of the "high-salaried professors" he adds: "Prof. Orton, the geologist, is paid a fat sum for getting out a geological report every once in a while, and this in addition to his regular salary."

This is said of Edward Orton, a veteran servant of the state, a man whose name will always be associated with her best prepared scientific information, and whose fame is eagerly shared by the state with the university. He now lies prostrated with paralysis largely induced by too zealous and protracted labors in behalf of the state, labors crudely described by Mr. Nichols as "getting out a geological report every once in a while."

The bad taste of this fling at a former instructor and friend is equaled by its lack of truth. Had Mr. Nichols cared to consult the secretary of the board of trustees he would have learned that the professional salary of Dr. Orton was always suspended while he was doing work in the field on his state geological report.

It is not by such arguments as these that the legislature will be induced to repeal the wise act of its predecessor, and fritter away among a dozen colleges the funds whose concentration on a great central university is the indispensable condition of securing to Ohio a position in higher education commensurate with her greatness in population and wealth.

ON LOCAL LINES.

A Few Items About Toledo Railroaders.

The C., J. & M.—Clover Leaf Earnings—Mr. Booth's Office—The Lime Meeting Postponed—Opening of Navigation.

The committee of railroad men representing the lines running to lime producing points, to adjust rates, was to have been held in this city this morning, but the meeting has been postponed indefinitely.

Those interested in the C., J. & M. reorganization did not meet yesterday. The meeting will be held subject to the call of the president.

Railway freight claim agents are discussing the advisability of forming a national association.

Messrs. A. G. Blair, of the Wheeling, and J. M. Ferris and Hudson Fitch, of the Ohio Central lines, are at Pittsburg, attending the coal meeting to-day.

General Passenger Agent C. C. Jenkins, of the Clover Leaf, is at St. Louis.

General Manager Ashley, of the Ann Arbor, is expected home to-morrow.

President S. R. Calloway, of the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City railroad, is in the east.

Chas. Gates, of the Union Ticket office, thinks at least 20,000 people will go to the world's fair from Toledo. John Gunckel places the figure at 12,000.

Volunteer post, G. A. R., at its next regular meeting will decide what route its members will take to the national encampment at Washington.

The earnings of the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City railroad for the month of February, 1892, were $149,793, an increase of $35,037 compared with February 1891.

W. A. Sprott, commercial agent of the Wabash at Cincinnati, is calling at the local office to-day.

G. C. Tolman, traveling passenger agent of the Big Four, is in the city.

Traveling Passenger Agent J. T. Gamble, of the Ohio Central lines, is at Charleston, W. Va., to-day.

R. H. Wallace has been appointed traveling passenger agent of the Erie lines, with headquarters at Akron, O.

The office of General Freight Agent A. J. Booth, of the Wheeling & Lake Erie, in the Produce Exchange, is being refitted in a manner worthy of the genial gentleman who is to hold down the G. F. A.'s chair.

Local coal road officials are of the opinion that coal will be moving lively and that navigation will open on the lakes by April 10.

It is said that Ventura county, California, is the most prolific bean-growing section in the world. One ranch of 2,200 acres has produced 1,030 tons of Lima beans this year. It took 31,000 sacks to hold the crop, and they will fill about 103 cars on an average of ten tons to the car. This will make eight or nine solid trains of beans. But this only from one ranch. The railroad company expects to handle 1,500 carloads of beans on the Ventura division this year.

A Good Doctor

MOTHER—NONE BETTER. See what she has in her favor. She's on the spot, she sees the first symptoms; she has sympathy. The little sufferer is bone of her bone and flesh of her flesh. Good points, every one. Add another—the right remedy—and you have as much certainty as can be had in this world that Baby will recover. Dr. Hand has provided the remedy. In Pennsylvania, where he is best known, almost every mother will testify to this. Happy, healthy children is the evidence they offer.

A little Book, illustrated, full of sense and suggestion, will tell you more of Dr. Hand's work and his remedies. Any Mother can have the book sent to her free. Address

LEGAL NOTICE.

George Schramm, Plaintiff,
vs.
James McK. Irvine et al, Defendants.
Common Pleas Court of Lucas County, Ohio.
Case No. 32470.

James Irvine, surviving husband of Roberta McK. Irvine, deceased, Frederick and Helen Irvine, heirs at law of Roberta McK. Irvine, deceased, all residing in New York city, state of New York, and Robert M. Irvine, (heir at law of Roberta McK. Irvine deceased) residing in Monroe, Seville county, Utah territory, will take notice that on the 2d day of March, A. D., 1892, George Schramm filed his amended petition in the common pleas court of Lucas county, Ohio, in the above mentioned case, being No. 32470, against the above named parties and others praying for the foreclosure of a mortgage made and given by Roberta McK. Irvine on June 27th, 1887, to William Watson on the following real estate, to-wit: That part of the west half (1-2) of the northwest one quarter (1-4) of section twenty (20), town nine (9) south range seven (7) east, lying north of Monroe street, containing forty (40) acres more or less, in Washington township, Lucas county, state of Ohio; given to secure a note of $500 dated June 27th, 1887, with two other notes of $500 each of the same date, for the part purchase money for said premises, which mortgage was with said $500 note due June 1st 1890, secured thereby, duly sold, assigned and transferred by said William Watson to said George Schramm, plaintiff, and on which mortgage and note secured thereby, a balance of $464.10 is due, with interest on the same at 6 per cent. per annum, payable annually, from June 1st, 1890.

Said parties are required to answer on or before the 23rd day of April, 1892, or judgment may be taken against them.

BEARD & BEARD,

HUDSONS

SPRING OVERCOATS

ARE READY FOR INSPECTION!

Our stock contains the new styles of goods and the garments represent the best of making and shape. It is so all through the assortment from $10 to $12. Every coat has points of style and making that make them excel others sold at the prices. You can buy a Spring Overcoat in any clothing store, but our claim to giving you the best values is based on a thorough knowledge of the markets and through very extensive buying at lowest prices.

BOYS' SPRING SUITS

Perhaps a little early, you may say, but bear in mind that as early buyers we secured the cream of styles and patterns. Many that we bought long ago we could not get now. It will be so with you. The choice, nobby things go early. We have a very full stock, beginning with the little suits 4 to 8 years in the new blouse and vest suits, in handsome fancy and solid colors, prices $3 to $10. In suits from 8 to 15 years the double-breasted will take the lead, in which we have a grand display in the most attractive patterns, prices $5, $6, $7, $8, $9, $10. In boys' long pant suits, 14 to 18 years, we have everything you can wish for—the plain solid colors, handsome shades of gray and blue, dark mixtures of every pattern, and an endless variety of fancy light colors in the very choicest styles. If you are not ready to buy and wish to look we will be pleased to show you through the stock.

HUDSONS, CLOTHING, BOOTS AND SHOES, HATS AND CAPS, FURNISHINGS.

Westminster Sunday school holds its anniversary exercises to-night.

Miss Minnie Unverferth, of Pemberville, while in Toledo a few days ago, fell into an excavation. The sidewalk had been removed and no danger signals displayed, which caused the accident. A damage suit will soon be commenced.—Bowling Green Democrat.
